ITALY OUTLAWED BY LEAGUE

VIOLATION OF COVENANT

UNANIMOUS VOTE IN COUNCIL

ALOISI JESTS DURING SOLEMN SESSION

Geneva, Oct. 7.

By a unanimous verdict the League of Nations Council to-day morally outlawed Italy from the comity of civilized nations, declaring that Italy had had recourse to war in violation of the most sacred engagement.

Other members of the League are pledged to the ultimate severance of all trade or financial relations, and the prohibition of all intercourse with the Covenant-breaking state.

Moving scenes occurred in the Council Chamber when each member answered in the affirmative in reply to a question from the chairman whether he approved the report stigmatizing Italy in this manner. Baron Aloisi, whose features throughout the ordeal betrayed his deep personal concern in the issue, flicked a cigarette as the vote was recorded and made jesting remarks to M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, with a smile on his face. It was the smile of a gallant loser.

This was the first occasion in its history that the Council had decided to apply Article XVI, and this against one of the founder-members of the League!

ASSEMBLY NEXT

The next step will be for the League Assembly to associate itself with the Council's decision and a co-ordinating Committee will be appointed to deal with the measures necessary to institute economic sanctions. The Committee's first duty will be to prepare the plan of sanctions, which will probably include the interruption of diplomatic, but not of consular relations, and will probably remove the embargo on arms to Ethiopia.

The question of a blockade is not likely to arise immediately, but no doubt it will be considered if more moderate measures fail.

ALOISI FAILS

Baron Aloisi, the Italian chief delegate, was the first speaker at the public meeting of the Council. He complained that the Committee of Thirteen's report overlooked the essential point that persistent aggression had compelled the Italian action.

Italy, he argued, was now in a state of legitimate defence, which no international instrument even limited. All defensive preparations were carried out in the open and in daylight. And all arguments were futile as long as they were based on the abstract principle which places Ethiopia on the same footing as other members of the League of Nations.

HAWARIAT ANSWERS

The Ethiopian delegate, M. Hawariat, said he drew the conclusion from the League Committee's report that under no circumstances could Ethiopia be placed under any form of protectorate, domination or mandate without her free consent.

He concluded with an impassioned appeal to Italy, stating that the Ethiopian Government in this decisive hour hoped the Italian people would consult its conscience, its feelings of justice and right, and its religious faith. He asked the Italian people to think of the suffering, ruin, and catastrophe which would certainly be brought upon Italy and Ethiopia by a long war. For he reminded the Italian people, a long war it must be, since the Ethiopian

U.S. NOT GUARDING HONGKONG

OFFICIAL DENIAL OF REPORTS

WASHINGTON STATEMENT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1935. Received, October 8, 6.30 a.m.)

Washington, Oct. 7.

A spokesman of the Navy Department to-day commented on reports from Hongkong stating that significance was being attached to the continued presence of the 13th, 14th, and 15th Divisions of the United States 6th Destroyer Squadron, in view of the fact that several units of the British Squadron have left the Far East.

The spokesman stated that the vessels were not being based on Hongkong, adding that the original schedule had not been changed. He further stated that it was usual for the Fleet to make a prolonged stay in Hongkong every autumn, since the port was popular with the officers and men.

The rumour that there had been an Anglo-American agreement on the subject was denied, the spokesman saying there was nothing in it. He added that the vessels would proceed to French Indo-China waters on October 12.—United Press.

British naval authorities in Hongkong, when questioned on the matter this morning, definitely denied that the stay of the vessels in port was the result of any Anglo-American agreement. It was added that the itinerary of the vessels was arranged earlier in the year, and was being adhered to.

LONDON-NEW YORK AIR LINE

REGULAR SERVICE ANTICIPATED

HUGE FLYING BOATS

Washington, Oct. 7.

A regular overnight air service between London and New York is being planned, according to the National Aeronautical Association.

Association officials state that the construction of a 50-ton flying boat, twice the size of the Pan-American Clipper now making a trans-Pacific test flight, is quite feasible.

The new plane would carry a paying load of passengers, mail and freight, and the first-class fare one way would be $33 when the service is bi-weekly and $33 when operating daily.—Reuter.

DETROIT WINS PENNANT

BEATS CHICAGO IN LAST INNING

ON GOSLIN'S SINGLE

Detroit, Oct. 7.
Detroit Tigers, last year's runners-up for the baseball championship, won the title to-day when they took the sixth game of the series against the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field by four runs to three.

The Tigers won a thrilling match, the decision of which was still open until the ninth inning when Gordon Cochrane, the Tigers catcher, crossed the plate for the winning run on Goslin's single.

The Cubs batted first and during the nine innings they scored three runs from twelve hits against Tommy Bridges, who had Gordon Cochrane catching for him.

The Detroit Tigers, until the end of the eighth innings, had scored three runs against the pitching of Lawrence French, with Charley Hartnett catching.

When the Tigers went to bat in the ninth innings the score was therefore level. Norman Clifton was fanned while Gordon Cochrane singled. Charley Gehring was out on a sacrifice with Cochrane going to second.

Goose Goslin then singled to send Cochrane across the plate for the winning run and the championship.—United Press.

SLUGGING DUEL

Detroit, Oct. 7.
Detroit Tigers won their first world championship by beating the Chicago Cubs 4 to 3 in the sixth game of the world series to-day after a slugging duel in which the lead changed a half dozen times.

A howling crowd of 48,420, the greatest baseball crowd in Detroit's history, saw the match.

The issue was in doubt until the last inning when the veteran Goslin drove Cochrane home with a single and gained the deciding run.—Reuter.

INFLATION TALK IN AMERICA

Significant News In Finance Field

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Oct. 7.
Traders are studying the money and banking situation here and there is considerable talk of inflation. Many feel there must be some type of expansion soon, for which reason some investment sources are actually suggesting the purchase of stocks with an eye to inflation possibilities.

The major banks show tremendous deposit increases, but it is not indicated that this money is going into use. Many show sharp reductions of Government securities holdings and in addition it is indicated that the last Liberty Loan conversion was only about 80 per cent. successful.—United Press.

The explosion rocked the district for a mile around, bowled over pedestrians like pinballs, and destroyed dozens of motor-cars parked nearby.

A blinding flame then devoured the walls of the building as though

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES

ETHIOPIANS HOLD THEIR GROUND

SEVERE CASUALTIES ON BOTH SIDES

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, Received Oct. 8, 8 a.m.)

Harrar, Oct. 7.

An official communique states that the Ethiopian troops are holding their ground on the northern and southern fronts, where the bitterest fighting is proceeding. Casualties on both sides are said to have been extremely heavy.

Although it has been a one-sided conflict, in which the Ethiopians are using spears, swords, knives and pistols, the troops of Emperor Selassie have nevertheless defeated the invaders in battle, despite their aeroplanes, tanks, artillery and machine-guns.

The Italians have claimed advances on the north, and have admittedly taken Adowa and Adigrat, but their aeroplane bombardments have failed to frighten the tribesmen, who are resisting stubbornly and with good effect in the rough country over which Italian troops are seeking to pass.—United Press.

NO FURTHER ADVANCE

Rome, Oct. 7.

In the absence of news of a further Italian advance it is presumed in Rome that the armies are consolidating their positions, following the capture of Adowa, which will be linked up with the road system of Eritrea before the next advance begins, it is believed.

Meanwhile, the Government is planning to increase its fighting strength in East Africa. Statistics disclose that 200,000 fighting men are already in the colonies and another 30,000 labourers, mostly road builders, accompany the troops.

MORE PLANES

Moreover, there are 350 war planes and 250 tanks in Africa under the Italian command. Three-quarters of the troops and the majority of the tanks are in Eritrea, concentrated for the drive into Ethiopia. The Air Force is expected to be increased in East Africa to a total of 800 planes before the end of the year.

A Royal decree has authorised the expenditure of 337,000,000 lire up to 1944 for the construction of oil fuel depots for the Italian Navy, it is announced.—Reuter Special.

GREATER OPTIMISM

Addis Ababa, Oct. 7.
A more optimistic feeling prevails in this city to-day than at any time since the outbreak of hostilities.

Intimates of the Emperor report that he is in the highest spirits, but outside observers are unable to see any signs justifying his optimism.

It was officially admitted to-day that Adowa had fallen into Italian hands, but it was stated that the town had been previously evacuated and that there had been no Ethiopian resistance.—Reuter.

UNPROTECTED CITIES

London, Oct. 7.

Sir Sidney Barton, British Minister to Ethiopia, has requested the Foreign Office to make representations to Italy against bombing Addis Ababa and Dire-dawa, which are unprotected and the populations of which include many foreigners, as well as women and children.—United Press.

DETAIL OF NOTE

London, Oct. 7.

The French Government, in a reply to an enquiry addressed to the Ambassador on September 24 by the Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, says that the suggestions of the British Government for mutual support in circumstances envisaged in that enquiry fills very opportunely the gap in the system of collective security to which the two Governments are firmly attached.

Such an obligation, however, must be reciprocal, and must apply equally on land, sea and in the air, must apply in relation to non-members as well as members of the League of Nations and should involve the closest collaboration beforehand.

Nameless Graves For 419 Living Men

ON ISLAND HELL

SIX HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-THREE convicts, banished by their country, abandoned by all but their truest friends, sailed from Ile de Re, near La Rochelle, on September 24 in a floating prison, the ship La Martiniere, bound for Devil's Island.

Two hundred and fifty-four of them are condemned to ten and fifteen years' hard labour, with the prospect of release if they can escape the fever and disease which give the island such a high mortality.

Nameless Graves.

The other 419 are forbidden ever to return to France. They are condemned to death. Their only release is a nameless grave—to add to the thousands of such graves; the graves that make Devil's Island so apt a name.

The convicts themselves called the journey to French Guiana "Le Grand Voyage" because, like that of death, it is made without hope of return.

And those few relatives who went to the island fortress to see La Martiniere leave for Devil's Island were heavy mourning as if the husbands, sons, and brothers they wept for were already dead. They had their last farewell.

For eight days they had been allowed an hour to visit and talk, and on the day before the departure fifteen minutes was allowed them to say goodbye.

Long before the ship sailed the cobbler-stoned streets of the little port of St. Martin de Re, which cluster about the great fortress prison of St. Martin, were echoing to the arrival of hundreds of holiday-makers from various parts of the island and from the mainland. Motor-coaches and ferry-boats ran special services. Windows of the shops and houses along the quay were filled with spectators.

Three steamboats waited alongside the quay to take the convicts on board La Martiniere, where the great iron cages, with their cement floors, had been made ready for them.

In the prison of St. Martin itself a picked prison guard carrying both rifles and revolvers lined up the convicts and made them strip. Their mouths and hair were searched for banknotes, tobacco and other forbidden property.

Chained in Threes

Each convict was then given a new outfit with a blanket, and a bag containing underwear, sabots and a spoon. The dangerous convicts were chained in twos and threes by the wrists. The others were allowed the liberty of their hand and feet.

Some of them had been in St. Martin nearly two years. Others came from the prison at Rochefort and other great towns. Most of them were young, the majority had taken life, committed violent assaults, robbed with murder.

Calixte Joulin had killed three inspectors of police at Marseilles, Pierre Menou had killed his fiancée in Paris, Edmund Egasse had killed the assistant director of a Paris hospital; Armand Cabelot had stabbed twelve times a child of thirteen. There were

American Debutantes at Royal Courts

U.S. CONGRESS MAY FORBID FUTURE PRESENTATIONS

New York, Oct. 3. The effort begun in the United States Congress to forbid American debutantes being presented at Royal Courts in London is receiving the full support of United States Government officials.

Representative Cannon, of Wisconsin, made the first move to end the custom in a resolution introduced to the House of Representatives which would ban presentations and also prevent American diplomatic representatives from wearing silk knee breeches at court functions.

"Deluged"

Diplomats gave their support to the proposal on the grounds that the Embassy in London is deluged every year with requests for presentations. Political influence, from that of the President down to members of Congress, is exerted by the leading families of America to win presentation for debutantes before the King and Queen.

The Embassy is allowed to present about ten American women at each of four courts, but the number of requests averages between three and four hundred every year. Diplomats are supporting the proposal regarding silk knee breeches on the ground of the expense involved.

others who had not committed any great crime, but were habitual criminals.

They are boats of 300, 500 and 750 tons displacement with an action radius up to 8,200 sea miles.

British submarines at present range from the "H" class of between 400 and 500 tons to the XL, Britain's largest submarine, now in reserve, which has 2,800 tons displacement.

New Weapon

The new German U-boats can plunge to the exceptional depth of 300 feet. Water pressure at this depth is resisted by a specially-built outer hull which is light in weight in relation to its strength.

Highly efficient rotating pumps have increased rising speed by fifty per cent.

The modern U-boats are armed with a new weapon—an inflammable torpedo.

Incendiary material is added to the explosive charge in the proportion of 15 per cent. It is suggested that a single hit with such a missile would envelope a ship in flames.

U-boat building is going on day and night at the Marine-Werft, Wilhelmshaven; the Kieler Arsenal; Blohm and Voess, yards at Hamburg, and by other firms with wartime experience of U-boat technique.

Keeping Secrets

As in the case of airplanes, parts are manufactured separately and assembled later. Only a few engineers and foremen know what is being made.

Machinery is made at factories in Cologne and Dessau; torpedo tubes are made at Eslingen, Mannesmann, and the torpedoes are completed at the works of the Schwartzkopf firm in Berlin, with military and civil counter-espionage agents keeping guard to prevent any leakage of information.

Science Fears Frankenstein Monster

It Has Created MAY LOOSE ON WORLD A REIGN OF TERROR

Scientists Cannot Hold out Much Longer

Solemn Statement
By Sir Richard
Gregory

SIR Richard Gregory, F.R.S., one of Britain's great men of science, fears that science is growing into a Frankenstein monster which soon the scientists themselves will not be able to hold.

Other scientists agree with him. The fear has been growing for some years.

An attempt was made to band together leading men of science to put the monster in chains.

Two years ago the British Association formed a "brain trust" to do this. Sir Richard Gregory has had to admit that the attempt had failed.

He is afraid, and other men are afraid. They think that the scientist should not be able to let loose on the world a terror which could wipe out whole populations, and then allow his responsibility to end there.

"You would not give a child a packet of dangerous explosives," said Sir Richard. "But that is exactly what we have been doing."

"There are some of us who are beginning to be afraid of the prospects."

Norwich, Sept. 25. "THERE are many men of science who believe that the laboratories of to-day are producing a Frankenstein monster for to-morrow."

Those were Sir Richard Gregory's exact words in a special interview given at the British Association headquarters in Norwich.

Last Wednesday, in a dramatic speech given before the Norwich Rotarians, Sir Richard tried to tell the public that the man with a test tube is not a man with a load of mischief. He said that the use for good or evil of a discovery depended on the community.

Can Be Blamed
But in his interview Sir Richard admitted that scientists can be blamed, and that there is justification in the increasing uneasiness and suspicion with which the ordinary man is viewing the efforts of the laboratories.

12 PUBLISHERS
REFUSED FORTUNE

"SCARLET PIMPERNEL" NOT BEST SELLER!

For many years "The Scarlet Pimpernel" has been a great seller in the bookshops; it has made a fortune for Baroness Orczy, the authoress.

For years it was the most popular play in the Fred Terry and Julia Neilson repertoire; it made a fortune for them, too.

Baroness Orczy told a gathering at a London literary luncheon recently how:

Twelve publishers rejected the book; and how in despair she accepted £30 for it from the thirteenth—only to have the offer withdrawn; the firm thought it was too much!

The plot of the book came to her, Baroness Orczy said, while she was waiting for a train at the Temple station—"then the most dreary, depressing station on the face of God's earth."

I sent it to twelve different publishers, and not one of them would have anything to do with it, and there were rejection slips all the time.

Lucky Refusal
"Then a publisher offered £30 and I accepted it. But two weeks later a letter came from him to say that his directors declined to agree."

"I then heard that Mr. Fred Terry wanted to produce a play. We mucked up the book, and sent it to Mr. Terry who agreed to produce it."

"I sent the book away again, this time to Greening and Co."

"The publisher said he would read the manuscript over, and would then give it to his old mother to read, and if she liked it he would publish it as she was a judge of public opinion."

"She must have liked it because they took the book."

forts of their work on the rest of society. And there are some of us who are beginning to be a little afraid of the prospects."

Sir Richard was directly asked: "Have you ever known of an instance where a scientist, having realised that a certain discovery may have harmful applications, has refrained from publishing it?"

"Never," answered Sir Richard with great emphasis. "He would publish. Ethical considerations of that kind are almost totally non-existent among scientists. To him new knowledge is the thing. A fact is a fact, and has nothing to do with good or evil."

New Mustard Gas
"A few weeks ago," he went on, "I saw a description in a technical journal of some new mustard gas."

The scientist who published that paper did not speak of his discovery as a mustard gas. He never even thought of it in that way. He had merely effected a re-coupling of certain compounds.

To him his achievement was merely an interesting piece of research in organic chemistry, and he just stated the facts.

"But the world has another dangerous gas."

"The biggest job which faces us today is to solve this old problem of the responsibility of the scientist with regard to his discoveries and the rest of the community."

One item of research properly applied might find use for tens of thousands, and another throw thousands out of work.

"One result of research wisely applied may save human lives and another destroy them."

"It is manifestly wrong that the scientist's responsibility should end with the announcement of his discovery."

What has happened, Sir Richard was asked, to the great plans discussed by the British Association two years ago for a "brain trust" to help the country in social and economic planning and to act as a board of censorship on discoveries?

"Nothing," he answered sadly. "The plans seem to have been shelved."

The present meeting of the British Association has not made any reference to any further steps."

Major A. G. Church who, as an executive of the British Science Guild and the Association of Scientific Workers, was concerned with the British Association plans for a "brain trust," was not hopeful for the future.

"I have now resigned from active work within these associations," he said. "But I can tell you that the efforts we made to get scientists to weld themselves together into a profession with a corporate sense of responsibility like lawyers, doctors, and others, have failed absolutely."

"Some time ago we made an attempt to find out how far scientists were prepared to limit themselves against work which might have harmful potentialities to the community."

Professor Sir Frederick Soddy, F.R.S., suggested a resolution that members should not accept subsidies to engage in special research work into poison gases for military purposes.

Arrogant Scientists
Our members would have none of it. Eventually a resolution was passed to the effect that university teachers should not accept subsidies for such work as this would be contrary to the spirit and traditions of learning.

"The trouble is that the average scientist is far more arrogant about his work than the normal man, and he declines to admit any measures which he considers a restriction on the pursuit of knowledge."

"But this freedom in research has great dangers to the world to-day."

"We ought to have an ethic like other professions. It is up to the great leaders of science to give a lead in this respect. It is time that the man in the laboratory realised how his work affects the man next door."

Jeritza's First Husband Says She Is Still His Wife

Vienna, Sept. 30.

OPERA star Marie Jeritza arrived at her lakeside villa at Unterach, in Upper Austria, to-day, and left at once on a mountain motor tour with her Hollywood film-producer husband, Mr. Winfield Sheehan.

Her Austrian husband, Baron Leopold Popper, declares she is still his wife; he knows nothing of any divorce.

WAR CHANGED HER NATIONALITY TWICE

Paris, Oct. 1.
A baroness, who has twice had her nationality changed by war, has celebrated her 103rd birthday in Alsace.

She is Baroness Hessa de Reinech (nee Anne de Gohr). She was born in 1832. Under Louis Philippe and under Napoleon III, she was a Frenchwoman.

Then, after the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, Alsace became German. The Baroness then was a subject of the German Emperor.

The Great War gave her back her French nationality and enabled her once again to fly the tricolor over the Chateau of Hülshbach, near Altkirch, where she lives.

The baroness enjoys excellent health and every day goes for a walk in the park surrounding her home.—Reuter.

Film Bachelors— By Mae West, Spinster!

MAE WEST, the "spinster," submits to the public the following as her estimate of the twelve most eligible bachelors in Hollywood:

Cesare Romero, Lyle Talbot, Ivan Lebedeff, Jack Oakie, Randolph Scott, Nelson Eddy, James Dunn, Gene Raymond, Henry Wilcoxon, Whitney Dean, Rham, Lee Tracy—and Baby, Leroy!

"Eligible bachelors are hard to find," Mae told an interviewer, "for, if they're eligible, they don't stay bachelors."

"I don't know all these men personally, mind. I judge a number of them purely by their work on the screen, and I may be wrong for a good director can do a lot for a man."

Romero, now—he's a typical Latin lover. He'll do if you like your men tall, dark and handsome. Besides, he's from a hot country. (Mr. Romero is of Spanish descent).

Lebedeff used to be in the Czar's army. He has the most graceful manners of any man I have ever met. He kisses your hand—but that, of course, can be improved upon.

Lyle Talbot has that charming exterior that covers a real human type. He'd make any woman a good husband—if she wanted a good husband."

Of Henry Wilcoxon, the new British star, Mae said:

"They tell me he's a grand guy. 'Lee Tracy, now. Personally, I like Lee a lot, although they say a man who talks fast works slow."

WINGS FOR SOUTH SEA MISSIONARIES

AIRPLANES TO REACH ISLAND CANNIBALS

London, Oct. 1.

Flying missionaries will face the perils of the Australian Mandated Territory in North New Guinea, after the end of 1935, if the Church of England Melanesian Mission's plans are realised.

"The task is the most difficult, dangerous and important since the Solomon Islands' mission," said Rev. Stuart Artless, secretary of the home organisation of the mission.

"The territory is populated by 200,000 tribesmen, some cannibalistic, most of whom have never seen a white man. We are planning to send three of our most experienced missionaries, who realise that they will be taking their lives into their hands."

He referred to the immediate need of £2,000 to purchase an aeroplane, which is the only means of reaching the jungle settlement.

It is intended to name the plane the Southern Cross of the Air, following the tradition established by the mission's seven ships, all of which have been named Southern Cross.

Hugo Territory

The territory is 900 miles by 400, and it is expected that the cost will be at least £2,000 a year for the maintenance of three missionaries.

"Hundreds of gold prospectors are gathered at Wau waiting to enter the territory," said Mr. Artless, "and it is feared that contact between the whites and the primitive natives may lead to serious consequences. The mission aims, by Christian teaching, to counter-demonstrating influences."

WE BELIEVE IN TRUTH IN ADVERTISING

But if we started to tell you the truth about "GINGER" in words strong enough to do full justice to JANE WITHERS' astounding performance in this picture, you wouldn't believe it. The only thing we can do is to tell you to see the picture for yourself.

THE SILENT GUIDE TO HONG KONG.

WHAT IT IS: The "Silent Guide" consists of a large illuminated street map of Hong Kong (18 feet by 6 feet). The map, which is coloured, is painted on a ground glass background, behind which are over 5,000 small lamps. At a convenient distance from the large map is a small switchboard containing a number of six inch glass panels for subscribers' names, addresses and telephone numbers, each with its own button switch.

WHERE IT WILL BE: At the entrance to the Star Ferry Wharf (Hong Kong side) where it will be seen by 90% of the tourists and other visitors arriving at Hong Kong, besides the many thousands of residents who make daily use of the Star Ferry on their way to and from business.

WHAT IT WILL DO: If anyone wishes to find the location of an office, hotel, theatre, bank, shop or other business in Hong Kong, he goes to the switchboard where he finds the names of subscribers, properly classified and arranged alphabetically. He presses the appropriate button and the subscriber's name on the panel board immediately lights up. At the same time, on the large street map, a coloured lamp will show the exact position of the office or shop, etc., he is looking for, and the quickest route will also be indicated by lighting up the road to be taken right the way from the Star

Ferry to his destination. Bus and tram routes will be shown by special coloured lamps. Subscribers' names will be in Chinese as well as English if desired, and an attendant will be stationed at the Switchboard to give assistance to strangers if required.

WHAT IT WILL COST: The service is free to the general public, and only a nominal charge will be made to subscribers of $35 per year per name panel. This fee will include a free insertion of the subscriber's name, address, particulars of his business, agencies carried, etc., in

THE "SILENT GUIDE DIRECTORY" which will be published in conjunction with the "Silent Guide" and which may be obtained from the attendant at the Star Ferry for ten cents. The Directory will contain a small replica of the large illuminated map for recording, with a pencil, any position or route located on the large map.

THE "SILENT GUIDE" invention is the property of the Tell-the-World Publishing Co., Rutten House, Duddell Street, who will be pleased to reserve name panel spaces on application. Patents have been applied for. The installation, which is expected to take six weeks from the time when the names of intending subscribers have been collected, is in the hands of Messrs. H. W. Buckingham & Co., Tai Ping Building.

from Shanghai. "are you a resident here?" "Yes," was the answer. "I've been here goin' on fifty years. What kin I do for you?" "I am looking for a criminal lawyer," said the stranger. "Have you any here?" "Well," said the other, "we're pretty sure we have, but we can't prove it."

"Have you heard about old Pete Whalesteeth?" "No. What happened to him?" "He dropped down dead outside the Hongkong Hotel."

"Going in or coming out?" "Going in."

"Poor Pete!"

Mrs. MacWhirter—"The wee yin has just swallowed a shilling."

Neighbour—"Gracious, is the child in danger?"

Mrs. MacWhirter—"No, thank goodness, her father's out of town."

A young man, who had been calling frequently, went one night to see Betty's father.

"It's a mere formality, I know," he began, "but we thought it would be pleasing to you if it were observed in the usual way."

"And may I inquire," the father asked, "who suggested that asking my consent to Betty's marriage was a mere formality?"

"Betty's mother."

"My darter is goin' to play Bee-thoven to-night."

"I ope she wins."

At the last meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club it was announced that Mr. A. Morley was elected President in succession to Mr. G. W. Philco who has left Shanghai. Mr. R. E. NEW O.S.K. SERVICE PLANNED

SEPARATE LINES TO AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND

The Brisbane Maru which was due to leave Hongkong for Brisbane yesterday at 3 p.m. delayed her sailing on account of the typhoon until 3 p.m. to-day. The delay will not affect her date of arrival in Australia, however, for, being a fast motor vessel, she is expected to pick up the extra day quite easily.

This is one of the last trips which the Brisbane Maru will be making to Australian ports, for next May she is to inaugurate a new run between New Zealand and Japan direct. At present there are three fast motor vessels maintaining the O.S.K. service to New Zealand—the Brisbane Maru, the Sydney Maru, and the Melbourne Maru. Now, however, these vessels are calling, after sailing from Hongkong, at three Australian ports before continuing to New Zealand, resulting in longer transit time to New Zealand ports than to ports in Australia. In the new service these ships will proceed from Hongkong direct to New Zealand without touching at Australia, shortening the trip to New Zealand considerably.

Each of the ships was built in 1930 and are of 5,500 tons gross, they have 300 tons of refrigerated cargo space and this will facilitate greatly the transport of butter, cheese, fresh fruits, etc., from New Zealand to Japan.

The intended calling ports of the new service will be:

Outwards: Yokohama, Nagoya, Osaka, Kobe, Moji, Hongkong, Manila, Rabaul (New Britain), Numea (New Caledonia), Auckland, Wellington and Dunedin.

Homeward: Dunedin, Lyttelton, Wellington, Auckland, Cebu, Manila, Hongkong, Shanghai, Kobe, Osaka, Nagoya and Yokohama.

It is possible that the schedule may also include calls at Java and Singapore.

The Australian trade is not to be relinquished by the O.S.K. following the diversion of these three motor ships to New Zealand. There will be a new and independent line started which will run between Australian ports and Japan. What ships will be used for this service is undecided and new ships may be built especially for the run. It will be a monthly service. That will mean that the O.S.K. Line will have after May next year two separate monthly sailings from Hongkong to Australia and New Zealand.

In the meantime the O.S.K. has decided to make their existing line call at Dunedin and Lyttelton in New Zealand in addition to the usual ports of call.

"STUDEBAKER"

STUDEBAKER trucks cost very little more than the lowest priced units on the market, but they give you far better performance, far more stamina, much lower operating costs.

And the handsome, distinctive streamlined appearance of the new 1935 Studebaker truck makes it stand out from the crowd. With its sleek, business-like lines and powerful, dependable engine, it is a truck you will be proud to own, a truck which inspires a feeling of prestige that suggests a price much higher than its actual cost.

THE AGGRESSOR

The naming of Italy as the aggressor in the dispute with Ethiopia marks a definite step in the measures which the League of Nations is taking with the eventual aim of stopping this war of conquest. No other decision could, in face of the facts, be reached. Italy, as a member of the League, has entered into definite obligations to co-operate in the maintenance of peace; Ethiopia, also a League member, is entitled to all the assistance and protection which such membership is supposed to ensure. But the position is much clearer when we put generalities aside and come down to actual happenings. Under Article XII of the Covenant, members of the League agree, when any dispute likely to lead to a rupture arises, to submit the matter either to arbitration or judicial settlement or to enquiry by the Council, and, further, "in no case to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators or the judicial decision or the report of the Council." In the present dispute, Italy has been a party to the League Council enquiry, attending its meetings and taking part in its discussions. Yet, even before the Council has made its report, she has begun hostilities against Ethiopia. A specious attempt has been made by Baron Aloisi, the chief Italian delegate, to justify Italy's invasion by claiming that the Ethiopians have been the aggressors for several years, and that the present Italian operations "are legitimate and within the framework of the Covenant." The argument is that Italy is merely embarking on "defence measures." But the over-riding fact is that the Covenant does not recognise the right of any nation to determine for itself who has committed aggression; therefore, there can be no question of Italy's action being within the framework of that document. It is possible to read into the Kellogg Pact the right of a nation to engage in what might be termed "defensive aggression," but no such contingency is provided for in the League Covenant machinery. Facts show that Italy has definitely broken her pledge not to go to war until three months after the League Council issues its report; she therefore renders herself liable to the application of such measures as the League may determine. The logic of the matter is be-

NOTES OF THE DAY

NAVAL SECRETS

When we have heard complaints of embittered news correspondents who have collided with that inarticulate modesty of the British Navy, and sometimes when we ourselves have been put out by that same silence of the Senior Service, we have attempted to ease the smart by remembering what journalists, and others, in other lands than ours have to bear. To take a picture of naval operations or even to be seen carrying a camera in the "prohibited areas" in Japan is a serious offence. Foreign ships which from time to time have found themselves in these forbidden waters have had difficulty in securing their release. But, the climax, we feel, has been reached in the detention in Tokyo of 700 Japanese passengers of a cruise ship which took these people for a view of naval activities off Tokyo following the recent manoeuvres. Two of those aboard were observed to have taken snapshots and in consequence the whole of the 700 were held for questioning by gendarmes when they returned to the dock-side. This fact that the Japanese authorities take such a serious view of this sort of breach makes us conscious that the nation's naval secrets are worth guarding and allows us to sympathise a little with those officers who must decline to give the public information respecting activities and movements of the fleet in times of emergency.

LUCKY HONGKONG

Once again Hongkong has escaped the full force of a typhoon which for a time seemed to be threatening. There are things about this Colony of which our residents complain. Our summers are too long and too damp and our winters are too cold; our rates are too high and our rents are outrageously expensive; and the cost of entertainment causes the reproach of hospitality. But taking it all in all, life is not too bad for the average man here. Take a Government servant, for instance, who, as Sir Henry Pollock has pointed out, has advantages enjoyed by few. He has the benefit of reduced rentals, fixed pay (and no cuts), free transportation in some cases, sports and club facilities not enjoyed by the average man, free passage for himself and family when his leave comes due, and a satisfying sort of holiday, with pay (and no cuts), after he has served his sentence, so to speak. Yet he is not the only man in Hongkong who should be happy. As long as taxes are not increased and the dollar stays at a normal level, as long as there is no snow in winter and the typhoons keep on passing a hundred miles or so away, there is no valid reason why the rank and file should complain. If ever you feel down in the mouth, a wise man said the other day, consider the coolie who packs you up the Peak. "How would you like to have to earn a living?"

SHOWING THEM HOW

We did not hear very much about this team of Hongkong soccer players which went to play against Shanghai the other day. And it was not until late yesterday that we discovered what they did to the Shanghai police on Sunday afternoon. They scored ten goals without a reply from the guardians of the International Settlement's laws. That does not mean, of course, that the Hongkong team is anything extraordinary. Take away the six goals which that young gentleman Lee Wai-tong scored, and the count would have been respectable, but not so impressive. Lee Wai-tong did not need the encouragement his team-mates gave to him; it would appear. He was quite capable of beating the Shanghai police all by himself. It does not require our endorsement to make acceptable the assertion that he is probably the finest soccer player ever to come out of South China; and the North, too, for that matter.

yond dispute. The irony of the situation is that the League machinery should be so slow in operation that the aggressor has already started hostilities, but in these matters the procedure laid down, cumbersome though it is, must be adhered to. Nothing, it is now clear, will stop Italy in her war of conquest except united opposition on the part of other League members. Happily, the indications are that unanimity is assured.

ADOWA: the ITALIAN DISASTER of 1896.

Italian officers who fought in Abyssinia in 1896: A group of whom were killed at Adowa, where Italy lost 5,000 white troops killed and wounded.

General Matteo Albertone, who was taken prisoner by the Abyssinians at the battle of Adowa.

To the Italian forces in Ethiopia the strategic value of capturing Adowa was of much less importance than the moral effect such a victory had in Italy itself.

Adowa is a blot on a disastrous page of Italian history.

Forty years ago next March, the legions of Rome suffered, on the field of Adowa, its greatest defeat and humiliation since the days of the decline of the Roman Empire.

To-day, the first Battle of Adowa is vividly in the minds of Italian and Ethiopians alike, and its memory has played no small part in the development of the present crisis. To wipe out the stain in its military history was Italy's first object in the present campaign.

The Italians first came on the scene in Ethiopia in 1870, when an Italian company purchased Assab, a port near the southern entrance of the Red Sea, from a local Sultan. The Company was bought out by the Italian Government in 1882, and, in January, 1885, Massawa was taken over by them from Egypt. This act was greatly resented by the Abyssinians, for by a treaty concluded with a British and Egyptian mission in the previous year, free transit of goods was to be allowed through this port.

Matters came to a head in January, 1887, when the Abyssinians, in consequence of a refusal by the Italian Commander-in-Chief to withdraw his forces, were surrounded and attacked a detachment of 500 Italian troops enemy at Dogali, killing more than 400 of them.

From then on, through the next nine years, fighting occurred spasmodically between the Italians and Abyssinians, one engagement resulting in the death of King John, the Abyssinian Emperor, who was killed by a stray bullet.

Italy promptly concluded a treaty with the new emperor, in consequence of which the Italians occupied Asmara.

For a time it seemed as though hostilities between the two countries had come to a definite end but as the Italians became more and more friendly with two Abyssinian Princes, Mangasha and Ras Makonnen, the apprehensions of the Commander-in-Chief, while bension of their uncle, Emperor Menelik, increased and, in 1893, he denounced the Italo-Ethiopian treaty. In March, 1895, General Baratieri undertook the conquest of Tigre, the northern province of Abyssinia. At first he met with success; but in December he pushed a detachment as far south as Amba Alagi, and it was almost annihilated.

Thereafter Baratieri's tactics were indecisive and the Italian Government decided to supersede him. Meanwhile, anxious to win some success before the relieving general arrived, Baratieri attacked, in a weak position, at Adowa.

The rout of the Italians was complete. They lost 4,600 white troops and nearly 3,000 native soldiers killed and wounded, while between 2,500 and 3,000 prisoners were taken by the Abyssinian forces. The Abyssinian losses were about 10,000.

THE modern city of Adowa, which has suffered so severely from aerial bombardment during the past week-end, is the capital of Tigre, and is 145 miles northeast of Gondar and 17 miles from Axum, the ancient capital of Ethiopia.

It is built on the slope of a hill at an elevation of 6,500 feet, in the midst of a rich agricultural district. During the wars between the Italians and Abyssinians it was looted and burnt on four occasions, but, until last week, the churches escaped destruction. The Church of the Holy Trinity, one of the largest in Abyssinia, contains numerous wall-paintings of native art.

Most of the ancient city, unhappily, now lies in ruins; a victim to "civilisation."

We Apologise For The

A class in English was given the task of writing four lines of dramatic poetry. The results were various, and, selecting the verse of a usually bright boy, the teacher read:

A boy was walking down the track.
 The train was coming fast.
 The boy stepped off the railway track
 To let the train go past.
 "This verse is very well done," said the teacher, "but it lacks drama. Try again, Johnny, and make it more dramatic." Whereupon, in a surprisingly short time, Johnny produced the following:

A boy was walking down the track.
 The train was coming fast.
 The train jumped off the railway track
 To let the boy go past.

A Doctor attended old Peto when he had his last touch of flu. "Did your teeth chatter when you felt the chill coming over you?" asked the doctor. "I don't know, doc," said Peto. "They were lying on the table."

WELCOME EMBARGO

U.S. ACTION WELL RECEIVED

BRITAIN'S REACTION

London, Oct. 7. The news of the proclamation of an arms embargo by President Roosevelt last night is welcomed in London.

Attention is given particularly to the President's statement that in the specific circumstances of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute he desires it to be understood that any United States citizens who voluntarily engage in transactions of any character with either of the belligerents do so at their own risk, and satisfaction is expressed at the President's attitude, which is regarded as indicating that any action decided upon by the Governments in the League of Nations, in their efforts to restore peace, will not be impeded by the fact that United States is outside the League.

The decision of the United States Government is the more appreciated in London as coming entirely from its own initiative—as the American Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, emphasised anew in Washington today—although no doubt facilitated by the full and candid information on the development of the situation which the British Government has regularly made available to the State Department.—British Wireless.

MORE PEOPLE EMPLOYED

LATEST BRITISH FIGURES

London, Oct. 7. The increase in the numbers in employment continued during September. The Ministry of Labour estimates that on September 23, there were approximately 10,435,000 insured persons, aged sixteen to sixty-four, in employment in Great Britain. This was 11,000 more than on August 26 and 192,000 more than the year before.

At the same date the numbers of unemployed persons on the registers in Britain totalled 1,568,610, comprising 1,576,125 wholly unemployed, 298,845 temporarily laid off, and 83,840 normally in casual employment.—The total was 10,646 more than on August 26, but 123,377 less than the year before.—British Wireless.

PRINCE HENRY'S BRIDE

TO BE GIVEN AWAY BY BROTHER

London, Oct. 7. Owing to the indisposition of the Duke of Buccleuch, father of the Duke of Gloucester's fiancée, Lady Alice Scott, she will be given away by her brother, the Earl of Dalkeith, when she is married at Westminster Abbey on November 6.

The Earl is a great personal friend of the Royal bridegroom. As a result of further conferences between the Court and the ecclesiastical authorities, plans for the wedding are nearing completion.—British Wireless.

PROTECTING EUROPEANS

ADDIS ABABA'S PROCLAMATION

Addis Ababa, Oct. 7. Europeans here are favourably impressed by the proclamation issued by the Director of the Municipality stating that any Ethiopian insulting or molesting a European or damaging his property, will be severely punished.

The proclamation adds: "The Italians have disappeared from the streets. The remaining Europeans are cultured people who come here with friendly intentions. Our reputation for the treatment of foreigners is good and must not be damaged."—Reuter.

people was resolved to resist to death.

REPORT ADOPTED

The Council, thereupon, adopted the report of the Committee of Thirteen, Italy alone voting in the negative.

The President of the Council announced that the first thing that was necessary was that hostilities should immediately cease and the Council remained at the disposal of the parties to the dispute to assist in arriving at a peaceful arrangement, if that were possible. The Council also adopted the report of the Committee of Six, Baron Aloisi expressing his disapproval of the report and reserving his right to submit observations later.

After the vote was taken the Chairman solemnly declared that fourteen members of the League Council had registered a vote that a state of war existed in disregard of Article XII of the Covenant. Members would now consider the fulfilment of their duty under Article XVI of the Covenant. They could not neglect those duties without failing in the role of members, he declared.—Reuter.

SEVERE TERMS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Geneva, Oct. 7. The League Council has voted to apply sanctions against Italy. Italy voted "No," but inasmuch as the vote of any interested party does not count, the Council vote is technically unanimous.

The Council motion, expressed in severe terms, reads that "Italy has resorted to war in disregard of its covenant under Article XII," which provides for submission of the dispute to arbitration and no resort to war within three months after the Council's decision has been returned.

Italy is now automatically subject to Article XVI, providing that members of the League who resort to war will be subject to the severance of all trade and financial relations. Some jurists believe that the Council has automatically admitted the existence of a state of war between thirteen nations and Italy.

The nature of the penalties will be arranged when the Assembly meets on Wednesday to adopt the Council's report. A co-ordinating committee will be appointed the same day, and the United States may be invited to send an observer to this committee.

WIDE SUPPORT

It is noteworthy that the Council's decision binds only thirteen. However, virtually all members of the League are expected to announce similar decisions during the Assembly meeting.

The Council also adopted the report of the Committee of Thirteen, declaring Ethiopia innocent of aggression.

ANGLO-ITALIAN STRUGGLE

At a private meeting of the Council, held earlier, it was decided to telegraph to the Ethiopians urging them to cease fighting. The British and Italian delegates struggled bitterly during the secret session. Baron Aloisi protested against holding a public meeting to-day, demanding time to study the report of the Committee of Six, holding that Italy had resorted to war in violation of the Covenant.

Mr. Anthony Eden, on the other hand, insisted on a public discussion immediately, with Italy present, and the Council supported Mr. Eden's demand.

It is learned that Ethiopia intends to demand the withdrawal of all Italian soldiers from her soil prior to any peace negotiations.

The report of the Committee of Six states that the resort to war is contrary to Article XII of the Covenant, adding that "the adoption of military measures by a State on its own territory does not free itself from its obligations." The report also denies the Italian claim of Ethiopian aggression, says the Kellogg Pact, to which Italy and Ethiopia are signatories, condemns warfare and obliges peaceful settlements, and adds that the Ethiopians have not broken the Covenant.—United Press.

assume with regard to Britain the following undertakings:

"If either of the two powers judges it necessary to take military, naval or air measures with a view to placing itself in a position to carry out in case of need its obligations of assistance arising out of the Covenant of the League or treaties of Locarno, it will enter into consultation on the subject with the other Power. The procedure shall be similar if either of the two Powers judges it necessary to take military, naval or air measures with a view to placing itself in a position to meet, should it arise, a situation in which under the Covenant or treaties of Locarno it would be entitled to receive assistance of the other Power."

The fact that one or other of the two Powers after consultation and a resulting agreement takes the measures referred to above, shall not on that account be regarded as constituting provocation such as would justify any failure by a third state to fulfil its international obligations. If either of the two powers is attacked on account of such measures taken after consultation and agreement, the other Power will render it assistance."

The French Government asks for a reciprocal undertaking on the part of the British Government.

It is understood the British Government desires to elucidate certain points in the French reply.—British Wireless.

TIMBER CO'S CLAIM

JUDGMENT GIVEN BY COURT

A claim for $735 for goods sold and delivered was brought by the Sham Mow Timber and Sawmills Co. against Lee Yau, formerly trading as Lee Sang & Co., building contractors, before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Summary Court this morning.

The defendant was absent, and after the assistant manager of the plaintiff firm had given evidence substantiating the claim, His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

His Lordship also made an order that the money which the defendant had in the possession of the Director of Public Works be handed over to the plaintiffs as settlement for the claim.

THRILLING GOLF IN ROYAL MID-SURREY TOURNAMENT

PERCY ALLISS BEATS L. J. COX

GREAT GAME PLAYED BY TWO RYDER CUP PLAYERS IN THIRD ROUND

PADGHAM DEFEATS WHITCOMBE ON NINETEENTH GREEN

By VAGRANT

London, Sept. 12.

More sunshine, more great games at Royal Mid-Surrey yesterday, when the second and third rounds of the News of the World £1,250 tournament were played.

Of the Ryder Cup nominees, Padgham beat his captain, C. A. Whitcombe, at the 19th—what a game!—Alliss beat Cox, and Perry and Burton both survived.

Looking back over a crowded day's play I suppose the Alliss-Cox match was the best of the lot, though the third round meeting between Padgham and C. A. Whitcombe was so filled with thrills that it is a little difficult to know where to begin.

Renowned down the years for its epicurean lunches, and no man is a golfer till he has tasted the succulent sales, Royal Mid-Surrey was subjected to the unique experience of picnic parties in the car-park beneath its scattered shades. But at 2.25 all the world and everybody's wife was abroad to see Alliss hole a long putt for a winning three against Cox. Grim fighting halves followed to the 5th, where Alliss, over the back of the green with his tee-shot, pitched back and holed a large-sized man's putt for 3. Cox, after a patient and apparently disinterested wait, holed a 7-footer for 2 and squared the match.

AN EXPENSIVE ERROR

At the 7th Alliss popped a grand second up four feet from the pin and holed the putt to take the lead. At the short 8th Cox made one of those costly mistakes, the club-house explanation of which starts, "Well, you see, what I meant to do was..." Whatever he meant to do he put his approach putt 4 feet past the hole and missed the return—2 down. Alliss holed a chip, of such quality as is suggested by caviare and dry sherry, for a win in 3 at the long ninth, and with a score of 32 out turned three up. Cox with 35 out was wondering where the tornado would next develop.

Cox did win the long ninth, saved the 13th after an erratic approach putt, then made another expensive error at the 14th. This is a long hole with a sloping green. When Robert played Hagen here some years ago the American watched his opponent's second finish with a stationary thump half-way up the slope. He then took a straight-faced shot and played a classic running club which finished near the hole.

Yesterday Cox took a minor iron and finished with the sincerest form of flattery for a half in 5. Then he put his second in a bunker to the left of the fairway at the 15th, and the game was virtually over. The short 16th is full of horrors for those who frequent it; to the casual genius it means nothing; and a half in 3 concluded a most interesting game. The figures of the winner were: 3 5 4 4 3 3 3—32 out; 3 3 4 4 5 4 4—28 in for seven holes—all gas and gallop, as Mr. Woodhouse would say.

A GREAT GAME

The other great game of the day was the meeting of C. A. Whitcombe and Padgham in the 2nd round. An extensive fan saw the Ryder Cup team captain win the first hole with his opponent first away to the right, then over the green with his second. An astonishing second hole saw the match squared by Padgham, who hit the immortal elm with his second, to see his ball bound back on to the fairway. He put it on the green with a most indifferent second, and holed the putt. Whitcombe, rarely surprised, was 12 feet short with his approach putt, and failed with the next. A battle of contrasted styles de-

BEGINNING TO BENEFIT

CLUBS RELIEVED OF TAX

SAVING OF £15 TO ROCHDALE

Already clubs are beginning to benefit from the relief in the entertainment tax. There is now no tax on the sixpenny admission fee, whereas, until this season, it was a penny, writes Frank M. Carruthers.

I am told that this meant a saving of £15 to Rochdale on their first gate. In view of the fact that, like all the other League clubs, they charge 1s. admission, this may be puzzling; but it is explained by the arrangement of admitting spectators at half price at half-time.

This system is general, and, in Lancashire in particular, hundreds of enthusiasts who cannot afford to pay 1s. wait outside the grounds until they are admitted for 6d.

An average of £15 a match means a saving of £300 a year, which is a considerable sum for many clubs. Indeed, to all the clubs outside the League who play to a 6d. gate—amateurs as well as professionals—the relief in the entertainment tax promises to be much more important than has been realised.

OLYMPIC SHOOTING

PRIZE MONEY SHOCK FOR MARKSMEN

Johannesburg, Sept. 5. An announcement by the International Shooting Union that all shots who received money as a prize in any rifle-shooting competition after August 1, 1934, must be classed as professionals, will make all South Africa's best marksmen ineligible to compete in the Olympic Games.

An invitation had been received from the Gorman Olympic Games Committee to send a rifle-shooting team to the games in Berlin next year. But practically every competition in South Africa carries a money prize.

A special meeting of the South African Olympic Games Committee and British Empire Games Association is to be held to consider the question.

Benny Lynch Wins Three Boxing Titles

HOW HE SECURED SENSATIONAL VICTORY AT MANCHESTER

(By Geoffrey Simpson)

Manchester, Sept. 7.

The most sensational fly-weight victory since Jimmy Wilde was cock o' the walk was gained by Benny Lynch, the midge Glasgow fighter, when he stopped Jackie Brown, 8st. champion of the world, in the second round of a hectic battle at Belle Vue here to-night.

Three championships—the British, European, and world crowns—changed hands in the space of 4min. 42sec., and in that brief time the crunching fists of Lynch sent the hitherto unconquerable Brown toppling to the canvas no fewer than ten times.

From the time that the fiery Scot dropped the champion with the nearest of left hooks for the first count, the contest was waged to the accompaniment of a never-ending tumult of cheers and excited shouts.

CROWD'S FRENZY

Never has a champion been so dramatically and devastatingly humbled as was Brown.

He was constantly getting up and being knocked down again, and at the finish the Scottish contingent in the crowd, unable to control their excitement, rushed the ring.

Police had to climb through the ropes to restrain their enthusiasm. But for all their efforts Lynch was pulled violently out of the ring by his countrymen and borne triumphantly shoulder-high from the arena.

Brown, dazed and shaken from the vicious blows which had rained on his jaw, seemed completely bewildered by the drama of the scene.

DOWN AGAIN—AND AGAIN

Brown made a big mistake in rising so rapidly from his first knock-down. He may have felt the indignity keenly, but it was nevertheless a blunder not to give his scattered senses an opportunity to return to normal.

For he was barely upright again, than Lynch, ducking smartly under a defensive lift, pounded Brown's body with a truly wicked left hook.

Down went Brown again, and when a few seconds later a grand straight right to the chin scored knock-down number three, the fight was as good as over.

Twice more Brown measured his length on the canvas, but more from weakness than actual blows, and he was in a decidedly sad way when he returned to his corner.

The second round revealed Lynch as a real firebrand. With the scent of victory in his nostrils he was after Brown like a tiger, pummeling away at the body to prepare a path for his round-arm blows to the jaw.

Brown retaliated with magnificent spirit. His efforts to stave off disaster were almost as magnificent as the Scot's storming attack. But Lynch was right on top and was hitting fast and hard and true.

Another left hook—how well Lynch delivers this match-winning blow—and the title-holder made his sixth acquaintance with the resin.

There was a count of six this time, though owing to the general tumult I doubt if he knew much about it.

Brown then took four more brief tumbles because his legs simply refused to support him, and the end came with him pinned in a corner helpless to defend himself. The referee tore Lynch away from the "kill" and thrust his hand aloft. It was all over.

Some declared that the official acted hastily, but though Brown was actually in his feet when the closure was applied he was in no condition to continue the struggle.

Thus an ex-messenger boy and graduate of a travelling boxing booth is at 21 years of age, king of the world's fly-weights.

SHANGHAI BOWLERS DELAYED

DUE TO-MORROW AFTERNOON

A SLIGHT CHANGE NECESSARY

(By "Sagan")

Further disappointment has befallen Hongkong lawn bowlers in connection with the visit from Shanghai of the Interport team which was to have arrived to-morrow for their opening match against the combined Police R. C. and Civil Service C. C. rink in the afternoon.

Original information was that the team, which is travelling by the Empress of Russia, would arrive early to-morrow morning and a revised programme of matches was recently accordingly drawn up. Now it is learned the ship will not arrive until five o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the earliest, while if the bad weather has had any effect on the voyage it may even be later.

In any case it is impossible to play off to-morrow's match against the Police and Civil Service. The first Interport game on Thursday, however, will not be changed.

Shanghai will be able to have a roll up on Thursday morning on any green they choose and they will be required to play Hongkong in the afternoon on the Club de Recreio Green.

It is not yet known what arrangements are to be made regarding to-morrow's match but it is understood that Shanghai will be asked if they are prepared to play this game on Sunday morning. If not then it may be substituted for the fixture on October 17 against the Hongkong Football Club, Yacht Club and Hongkong Electric.

There has been at least one change in the composition of the club rinks which are to meet Shanghai, R. Duncan, the Colony's champion, has declined the invitation of the Association to represent the Kowloon Bowling Green against the visitors on Sunday and his place will be taken by M. Henderson, of the Kowloon Docks, on whose green the match is being played.

year they must assemble on July 27. This is to make sure that the children will be in Berlin on August 1 to line the triumphal way along which the procession to the ceremonial opening of the Games will pass in the afternoon and for the festival play in the evening.

Other German schools are to adjust their holidays so as to make them include the period during which the Games are proceeding—from August 1 to 16—the aim being to give pupils and masters an opportunity to attend.

HOME SOCCER PROSPECTS

NO. 44: CLAPTON O.

P. PROUDFOOT'S RETURN

(By CHARLES BUCHAN)

Having gone through a process of reorganisation, Clapton Orient are looking forward to the coming season with complete confidence. It is time that the Orient took a step along the road to prosperity after several years of severe depression, and a big effort has been made to effect the improvement.

Under the management of Peter Proudfoot, who guided the Orient in palmy days, there has been a general overhaul of the playing staff. Only 12 of the old players have been retained, while 12 newcomers will attempt to place the Orient in a more comfortable situation. In addition, there are on a month's trial three players who, it is hoped, will strengthen the playing resources.

Among the newcomers in defence are Herod, once associated with the Spurs; Taylor, a well-built back from Halifax; Allcock, a go-ahead centre-half from Bristol City; and Reed and Heinenmann, last season with Crystal Palace. In the forward line great things are expected from a new wing consisting of Pattenau (Bradford City) and Campbell (Glasgow Rangers), while Edwards, from Bury, McAleer, Lincoln and Hammond, a young local centre-forward, are challengers for places in the attack.

Judging from the practice matches, the Orient are much stronger than they were last season. There is ability in every department combined with the asset of physical strength. All that remains is to find the right blend of the players at their disposal in the quickest possible time.

Although I do not expect the Orient to play any part in the Southern Section promotion race, I shall be surprised if they do not occupy a respectable position in the table. The forward line is likely to provide the only problem. An opportunist, like Halliday, now the manager at Yeovil, may be lacking, so they may not reap the full benefit from clever midfield play.

Orient's bold policy is deserving of a good reward in the shape of bigger gates at Lea Bridge Road. For years now they have struggled on with gates unworthy of a team of their standing. This season, with the improvement in the standard of play, I hope there will be a considerable increase in the attendances.

THRILLING GOLF IN SURREY

lighted those who followed the match, Padgham so lazily powerful, Whitcombe hitting the ball with all the venom of solid physique and powerful hands firmly interlocked. Then Padgham holed putts of 12 feet, 12 feet, and four yards to save the 6th and 7th and win the 8th, and to be two up—for Whitcombe's second to the 4th had found a sandy grave. With a half in 4 Padgham was out in 33 to his opponent's 35 and two up. Halves in 5, 3, 5 followed; then Whitcombe, who had missed holeable putts at the 10th and 12th, rammed one in from 12 feet to win the 13th in 3. He holed another of 7 feet at the 14th and the match was square. Back came Padgham to the attack, banging two fine ones home, with his opponent pulling his tee-shot into the short rough, and drawing his second into a bunker. Both had chances at the short 16th, Whitcombe following his opponent in a tragic and almost unbelievable attempt to hole short putts; then from the top of the 17th green of infinite subtlety, Whitcombe holed a putt suggestive of Corinthian basketballs for a 3 to square the match. With both hitting good drives to the 18th, a half in 4 was inevitable. At the 19th, Whitcombe drove into the cross bunkers guarding the green; Padgham was just short of them; pitched up 4 feet from the hole, and with a 3 snatched a fine win.

BRILLIANT GOLF

In the third round games, R. A. Whitcombe beat Adams, who has been playing so brilliantly late. Adams got an early lead but Whitcombe won the 11th with a 2nd, then holed a snide-mashie shot over trees at the 13th to get on terms. From then, until he won by holing an eight-yard putt for the match, he was always set for victory. It was a grand game, with the winner out in 34 and home in 33 for a round of 67. Padgham played some brilliant golf round the greens to beat J. J. Taylor. He drove the 7th; and, recovering well from a bunker at the next, shook his opponent into taking 3 putts. Three up he sailed comfortably on to a victory which seemed inevitable despite the fine fighting powers of Taylor. Perry always held the whip hand against the sole Irish competitor, Fairweather; King, if not so brilliant as in the previous round, had the better of the short game with another fairly-handled exponent of the delicate art in Ward; Burton had a very close call with Fenton. Compton is going his formidable way, and beat Kenyon by 3 and 1.

Denny played some of the most astounding golf of a bewildering day. In beating Mackie he reached the turn in 30 strokes to be six up, and with 4, 2, 4, settled the affair out of hand. And his opponent was out in 36!

In the second round games, Compton had a severe shaking-up by Martin. Both tasted all the troubles of the course, insidious like good luck, but equally expensive; both putted with remarkable accuracy. Compton lasted the better and got through. The match between Sam King and Davies produced some scintillating golf which finishing at the 16th hole in favour of the young Knole Park player. There was little to choose between the players off the tee, but King was slightly more accurate with his second shots. Out in 32 against 34 by Davies, King turned two up, his score for the first nine holes being 4, 4, 3, 4, 5, 4, 4, 2, 4; the next four holes were halved in 4, 3, 4, 3. King then won the long 14th in 4 against his opponents' 5, and finished the match with another 4 at the next hole, King was not asked to hole out a few putts of less than a foot, and his score of six under fours is, therefore, only approximate. With the exception of a pulled second at the tenth hole, he did not make a semblance of a mistake.

In the last match of the South Africans' tour at Scarborough, against H.D.G. Leveson Gower's XI, H. F. Wade, their skipper, fell heavily while fielding and was removed to hospital with a dislocated left shoulder.

The Welsh Rugby International selection committee has been re-elected as follows: (Swansea), D. Jones (Risca); R. Thomas (Llanelli); and H. Packer (Newport).

GARTHWAITE'S ELEVEN BEAT NAVY

EIGHT WICKETS

An eleven led by Lieut. C.C. Garthwaite, N.A., had an easy victory over a team skippered by Lieut. C. Miers at Cricket on the Navy ground at King's Park on Sunday, winning by eight wickets.

Batting first, Lieut. Miers's team scored 164 runs, to which Mr. Douglass contributed 32 and Lieut. Miers 34. Lieut. Garthwaite bowled very well for the winners and captured six wickets for 44 runs.

A first-wicket partnership which realised 102 runs between Lieut. J. P. Williams (70 retired) and Lieut. Hon. G. R. Clegg-Hill (61) paved the way for victory for Lieut. Garthwaite's eleven. Victory was secured for the loss of only two wickets, but the team continued batting until 210 runs were on the board with seven wickets in hand.

Insomnia—The Result of Nerve Weakness.

Most people, at some time or another, have known what it is to wake at night tossing and turning, hoping for the sleep which does not come, with the result that by morning they are tired and irritable, and ill-fitted for the daily routine. It is unwise to allow such nights of broken rest to become too frequent.

Insomnia may be due to some persistent pain, such as neuralgia, or rheumatism; or to insufficient physical exercise; worry, grief or over-activity of the brain. But usually its primary cause is nerve weakness, and in such cases a short course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills almost invariably is all that is required to set matters right.

The reason for this is that the nerves, like the other component parts of the physical system, depend for their strength upon an adequate supply of oxygen and iron, just such as is contained in the rich red blood created by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Try a thirty day course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As soon as you commence taking this reliable old preparation the constructive process will start. The blood will grow richer, will carry more vitality, and your own feelings will react pleasantly. Old aches and off-days will give way to new vigour and a brighter outlook on life. You will know once again the joy of possessing that priceless treasure...health.

CHINA AND JAPAN

MR. WANG CHING-WEI TO MEET MR. ARIYOSHI

Shanghai, Oct. 7.

An important discussion of Sino-Japanese problems including the Swatow rice tax dispute and the renewal of anti-Japanese activities in Hankow is taking place in Soochow near Shanghai between Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan, and Mr. A. Ariyoshi, the Japanese Ambassador to China. Both leaders left for Soochow during the week-end, according to foreign reports.

Sino-Japanese economic co-operation for the development of North China industrial projects may be included in the discussion.

Swatow Smuggling

Canton, Oct. 7.

It is authoritatively learned that the Swatow incident of September 30 has remained unsettled. The Chinese authorities are determined to effectively suppress smuggling and continue refusal to release the rice in face of strong Japanese pressure.

It is stated in Chinese circles that the rice really belonged to Chinese dealers, who purchased it from Japanese hands. There is really little ground for the Japanese claim of treaty violation.

It appears that the Chinese authorities insist that it is a case of smuggling and is a matter for local authorities at Swatow to handle and settle.

Certain Chinese papers continue to believe that the Chinese claims will be shot down by the Japanese warships at Swatow, but Reuter has been officially informed that the rumour is entirely without foundation.—Reuter.

Abyssinia's Example

Canton, Oct. 7.

"In invading Abyssinia, Italy is following Japan's example in Manchuria and Japan is responsible for starting the aggression," declared Mr. Chou Lu, Chancellor of Sun Yat-sen University and member of the South-west Political Council, in the memorial service at Chungshan Memorial Hall this morning.

Stating that no reliance should be laid on treaties guaranteeing peace, Mr. Chou stressed that a nation must depend on itself for existence and salvation. He said that the resistance put up by Abyssinia had brought international support.

"Most active in supporting Ethiopia is Great Britain," Mr. Chou continued. "At the League of Nations, Britain is championing collective security. Even France which has been friendly to Italy has agreed to join cause with Great Britain."

"For their own interests, other countries are also supporting Abyssinia. The condition of support is that Abyssinia is determined to fight."

"On the other hand, there was no support, even verbal, given to China by the Powers," Mr. Chou said. "At the beginning of the Manchurian dispute, the League of Nations urged the Japanese troops to withdraw to their original position, sent a Mission to Manchuria to investigate the dispute and refused to recognize Manchukuo and denied international postal and railway service with the puppet state."

"Taking opposite action, the Nanking authorities signed the Shanghai and Tientsin treaties," Mr. Chou added. "Further, Nanking has resumed postal and railway communication with Manchukuo, and replaced ministers by ambassadors at Nanking and Tokyo, and abolished Kuomintang organs."

"A nation first degenerated itself before being invaded by other countries. Foreign powers have no less reasons for supporting China than Abyssinia, and have no less investment in this country than in the other, but they back up Abyssinia because of her clear-cut stand and strong determination. As a contrast Nanking is submitting to the enemy."

Mr. Chou deplored the fact that since Mr. Wang Ching-wei resumed the presidency of the Executive Yuan the situation in Nanking has become worse. Mr. Chou recounted the South-west proposals: namely severe punishment to those who have betrayed the country, definite foreign policy and effective resistance to the enemy, but Nanking rejected them.

"Nanking asks us to co-operate," Mr. Chou said. "What we want to co-operate in is the saving of the country, and not to acquiesce in bartering away national territory and rights."

"A second world war is fast approaching, and we have to rely on ourselves to save the nation. It is impossible to co-operate with those who are bent on selling the country."—Union News.

COLONY'S PROGRESS

BUILDING ACTIVITY IN THE PAST YEAR

The report on the past year by the Director of Public Works States:

The volume of new building works coming under the jurisdiction of the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance showed a considerable decline when compared with 1933 but the industry was nevertheless fairly actively engaged throughout the year on works mostly of small magnitude.

The total number of plans approved were largely in the nature of alterations and additions to existing buildings. The number of new buildings included in such approvals were appreciably fewer.

Amongst the more important works for which plans were approved, the following may be noted:—New Hongkong and Shanghai Bank on Queen's Road and Des Voeux Road, Central; Office and Health Centre on Johnston Road, new Chinese Methodist Church in Wanchai extension to Soldiers' and Sailors' Home on Anton Street; extension to Messrs. Sincere Co.'s building on Connaught Road, Central; extension to St. John's Ambulance Hospital on Tai Hang Road; Confucius Hall on Caroline Hill Road; site development and Gas Holder at West Point; Repulse Bay Lido, development of Mount Cameron, Middle Gap, and new Tai Hang Road as residential districts; reclamation and Gas Holder on Kwai Wan Road; School and Church on Waterloo Road; the formation of Waterloo Road; Petho Theatre in Petho Street; Maryknoll Convent School on Waterloo Road and Boundary Street.

Buildings Completed

Buildings of importance completed were: Hongkong Stock Exchange Building in Ice House Street; Chero Club in Queen's Road, Central; Kam Loong Restaurant in Des Voeux Road, Central; China Fleet Club on Praya East Reclamation; School of Surgery, Hongkong University; Peel Engineering Laboratory, Hongkong University; St. Louis Industrial School on Queen's Road, West; National Lacquer and Paint Product Co.'s Factory on Shaukiwan Road; Commercial Press Ltd.'s Printing and Book Binding Factory on Shaukiwan Road; Alhambra Theatre on Nathan Road; Paint Factory in Arran Street and Canton Road; Book Factory in Pak Tai Street; Pastor's quarters at All Saints School in Hak Po Street; Extension to Chinese Y.M.C.A. in Waterloo Road; Lead Pencil Factory on Castle Peak Road.

Of the 280 Chinese tenement houses for which occupation permits were granted it is of interest to note that thirty-two were erected on the Praya East Reclamation making a total to date on this area 1,005 houses. Forty houses of this type were erected in other localities in Hongkong and 208 were erected in Kowloon and New Kowloon.

Occupation permits for eighty-five dwellings of European type were granted, of which twenty-eight were erected on the Island and fifty-seven in Kowloon District.

New Residential Districts

Mount Cameron, Middle Gap and new Tai Hang Roads are proving very popular as new residential districts. Buildings of non-domestic or commercial character completed show an increase over the returns of the preceding year, but these, apart from the buildings noted in paragraph 20 were of a minor character.

During the course of the year sketch plans were prepared for the following proposed buildings: Remond and Salvatori's Army Home; New Trade School, Wood Road; New Government Civil Hospital, Subsidary Buildings; Fire Brigade Sub-Station at Shaukiwan; and New Mental Hospital.

THE DOUBLE TENTH

GREAT MILITARY REVIEW AT CANTON

Canton, Oct. 7.

One of the outstanding features of the big celebration here on the National Day will be the military review at which over 23,000 men selected from the Provincial Forces are expected to participate.

These will include special units from the Canton Training Division, the Gendarmes, Naval Cadets, Police, and Air Force. Over 80 aeroplanes from different Air Squadrons are expected to turn out on the 10th.

The Review will start at 10 o'clock in the morning, when General Chan Chai-tong and other high military officials will inspect the Defence Forces at the Parade Ground of the Yin Tong Military Academy.

Besides the military review the Air Squadrons will give a display of modern air tactics including flight in formation and stunt flying.

A NEW SYSTEM

FOREIGN FREIGHT PLAN FOR SMALL PARCELS

A parcel arrived in Hongkong yesterday which launched in the Colony a new system of international package delivery, which is designed to reduce shipping costs and contribute greatly to the growth of foreign trade.

The enterprise is of Seattle origin and is headed in that city by Mr. R. W. Weymouth. It is known as the International Ocean Express System. The consignee of the Parcel which arrived yesterday, Mr. G. O. Rockholz of the Texas Co. (China), Ltd., was surprised that it should arrive any way other than through the Post Office. It came through the Kowloon-Canton Railway Co., however, the agents here for the new express system of delivery.

The purpose of the scheme, as explained by Mr. J. R. Wheeler, Manager of the Seattle office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Affairs, is the establishment of an international package freight system through the use of "consolidated" shipments designed to cut down shippers' costs and minimize international red tape which now attends such shipments. Mr. Weymouth declared the system is designed to appeal to shippers of packages ranging between the maximum limits of international parcel post and those which are not of sufficient size to enjoy mercantile marine tonnage rates.

World-Wide Basis Planned

The initial service will be operated between the United States, Japan, China, Hongkong and the Philippine Islands. Plans under consideration call for extension of the system to a world-wide basis.

The sponsors have already obtained the co-operation of leading transportation interests in the Orient, such as the Kokai Taiun Kaisha, leading express service of Japan; the Chinese National Railways, the Kowloon-Canton Railway, and the Luzon Brokerage Company, leading freight handlers in the Philippines.

"Under our system," Mr. Weymouth declared recently, "these major express services will act as the assembler and distributor of consolidated parcel shipments destined to or received from the participating express service of other countries, with International Ocean Express System as the ocean link."

Shippers, it was declared, will effect substantial savings in transportation and other costs incidental to consular and customs services, besides expediting deliveries through elimination of red tape attending single package shipments. Mr. Wheeler declared that a service such as the one offered, if handled efficiently, should prove a potent factor in development of foreign trade. "In domestic commerce," he said, "the volume of package freight shipments is about 5 per cent. of the gross freight handled. International freight, the percentage of package freight, is far below the domestic ratio. This, it may be safely assumed, is due to the costs and inconvenience of such shipments."

Increase Seen in World Trade

Mr. Weymouth expressed similar views. "It is our belief," he declared, "that with the removal of these high costs, international package shipments ranging between twenty pounds, and, say, 200 pounds, will increase."

"Furthermore, business frequently develops through a sample shipment followed by the small trial orders necessary to establish the basis for a large volume of business in many lines. We know of case after case where the excessive cost of shipping the trial order has balked the development of trade."

"Package freight beyond the limitations of parcel post is usually subject to additional shipping and landing costs. In many countries a customs broker for making custom clearances adds additional cost. Such fees, however, are not burdensome if distributed over a large group of packages entered under one bill of lading, and we are therefore able to absorb them in our ocean rates."

Mr. Weymouth said the package shipment system which he and his associates are launching has been studied by him for twelve years. During that time he has conferred with the heads of leading express systems in many countries, and large and small shippers everywhere. Inauguration of the service, he said, has met with enthusiastic response.

Present Service Limited

At present the service is available only for consignees in Hongkong, but when the system is more fully developed parcels will be able to be sent from here to other countries which are brought within the scope of the system's operations.

It is expected that this development will not take more than a few months, and eventually it is quite probable that the Kowloon-Canton Railway Co. will be forced to start a separate department to deal with the volume of business.

At present the only apparent objection is that it might take some time for parcels to mount up to the weight required before they could be shipped in bulk. This difficulty will not be apparent once the system gets into operation, however, for the parcels are drawn from a large area—the whole of the United States for example there will be a constant supply and quite sufficient to send shipments every day.

Those in control of the experiment are confident of its success and of the saving in money and the increase in business that it is planned to bring about.

VAST ARMIES MASS FOR ASSAULT

ITALIANS HEAD FOR AKSUM

FRENCH TROOPS GO TO DIREDAWA

ETHIOPIA TO DEFEND JIJIGA STOUTLY

(By United Press Correspondents at the Front)

Adowa, Oct. 7.

The Italians' Northern Army is massed here, resting after having avenged the defeat of the Italian troops by Ethiopian tribesmen at this spot forty years ago. General Debono's legions have their eyes upon Aksum, Ethiopia's holy city, just beyond the hills. They are eager to test their strength further.

At Aksum, only thirteen miles to the west, are the tombs of the ancient rulers of the Ethiopian tribes. The commander of this army, General Maravigna, expects to capture Aksum at any moment. His advance guards are pushing towards that goal.

For the past twenty-four hours I have been with the advance troops. Thousands upon thousands of reinforcements are behind us, having crossed the Mareb River, and are pushing south.

FRENCH TROOPS FOR DIREDAWA

Djibouti, Oct. 7.
It is learned that the Italian air forces are bombing Ethiopian troop concentrations north of Mount Mussali.
To-night, 1,200 French Senegalese Infantry entrain for Direddawa for the purpose of guarding the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway, jointly owned by France and Ethiopia.—United Press.

Behind them, again, are gangs of labourers, working night and day on the construction of roads and bridges by which the army will keep contact with its base in the north. New highways are being blasted through the hills. Troops are consolidating the flank positions and preparing for new thrusts.

Vast quantities of machine-guns and ammunition, mechanised artillery and hospital units are arriving.

The first wounded have gone back. They numbered only fifteen, including one white officer. The others were native infantry troops.

GUARDING FRONTIERS

While this Northern Army is consolidating its gains, other Italian forces are expected to drive south-west and north-east from the coastal frontiers, to cut the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway. There will be separate movements southward along the Sudan border, and westward along the frontier of Kenya, to prevent the Ethiopians importing arms.—United Press.

MASSING TRIBESMEN

Harrar, Oct. 7.

Dajazmach Nassibu, commanding the Ethiopian army in the East, told this correspondent that he was concentrating 150,000 warriors at Jijiga with the purpose of defending the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway.

Here may be fought the bloodiest battle of the entire campaign.

This general has no illusions and knows that defeat is inevitable. However, he intends to fight.

Scenes in this city defy imagination. The fierce, disorganised tribesmen, quarrel in the narrow, odorous streets, and every hour more and more of these savage warriors are arriving over the (Continued on Page 5.)

NEW AIR STRENGTH FOR H.K.

DEVELOPMENTS AT KAI TAK PLANES DUE SHORTLY

The arrival in Hongkong this morning from Singapore of two high officials of the R.A.F. and the Air Ministry marks another important step in the development of Hongkong as an air port for both Service and civil aviation.

The officials were Air Commodore J. W. Smith, Director of the R.A.F. in the Far East, and Air Commodore J. Bowen, Director of Signals in the Ministry.

Though he could not give details of an expansion or divulge the plans which will effect Hongkong as an air port, Air Commodore Smith made it clear that the importance of the Colony as an air base was fully recognised and the work of building up the facilities here for aviation was proceeding apace.

The work on the new hangars and the improvement of the Kai Tak aerodromes is proceeding rapidly. Commodore Welsh, in his recent visit, selected the sites and the work is going on now, stated the visitor.

"Further squadrons of R.A.F. planes will certainly be sent to Hongkong though of what type or exactly when I cannot say," he continued. "It will almost certainly not be this year."

IMPORTANT CENTRE

"Hongkong is the centre of very important British trade routes which must be protected. At present, the Navy is doing that work, but with the growth of aviation the R.A.F. will have to assume more of the responsibility. That will proceed when the grounds here are completed."

"At present, civil and Service planes use the same ground, and I don't see why that should not continue in a modified form. Civil and Service aviation are in closest co-operation. Civil aviation is the equivalent of our mercantile marine and supplies us with our reserves. All over the world, our strategic and our commercial routes are the same, and both branches of aviation must work in the closest harmony and co-operation. We will extend every possible help to the civil branch, and the new civil hangar is being built now at Kai Tak."

"I am convinced," said the Commodore, "that Hongkong is going to be one of the most important air ports in the Far East, and though Kai Tak aerodrome is the best we have here so far, it is by no means ideal. But so far as British commercial aviation is concerned, I visualise large flying boats for the future expansion. All-Red routes are being developed as far as is possible, but only flying boats can do this. The commercial aircraft of the future will essentially be big ocean-going aircraft; there is a limit to landing grounds, but not to the sea, and not to the size of the seaplanes which may be built."

CANT LAG BEHIND

"Commercial aviation in the Far East is developing rapidly and we must provide facilities or lag behind. Nearer home—throughout the Malay Peninsula—those facilities are provided."

Here on a tour of inspection, Air Commodore Bowen refrained from making any decided comment. Communications were a natural consequence of any expansion of either commercial or R.A.F. aviation, he said, and he had come to inspect Hongkong in respect of communications.

Air Commodore Bowen flew from England to Singapore by Imperial Airways plane and will return with Air Commodore Smith by the Hakone Maru on Saturday and leave Singapore by plane for England on October 20.

The visit of the officials is coincident with the visit here of the Imperial Airways aeroplane which arrived last week, but this has no significance. Civil aviation would be backed up by the Air Ministry as regards communications, said Air Commodore Bowen, until they were able to set up their own system of communications.

FUGITIVE ON DEATH MACHINE

DIES IN FLYING CATASTROPHE

WYOMING MYSTERY

(Special to 'Telegraph')

Cheyenne, Wyoming, Oct. 7.

Death rode on wings over Wyoming to-day, and struck down the giant passenger air liner piloted by the veteran H. A. Collison, with a million flying miles to his credit, taking at least twelve lives. Collison's co-pilot and the plane's young stewardess, and nine passengers perished.

The plane was en route to a convention at Atlantic City. It was in radio communication with Cheyenne just before the crash and its last despatch gave its elevation as 4,000 feet. Then there was silence.

Searchers found the wreckage hours later strewn along 400 yards of ground, indicating the plane had crashed with terrific impact.

Those aboard were: Pilot, H. A. Collison, George Gatty, co-pilot; Minner, Chicago; C. S. White, Jr., Pittsburgh; J. C. Osahing, Los Angeles; Fay Bais, Chicago; Robert Butler, San Francisco jurist; Mr. Hillman, Pittsburgh; Walter Crapnell; Mr. Warren, an employee of the United Airways, which operated the plane; Mrs. Cathcart, Portland, Ore.

HUNTED MAN ABOARD

The man originally reported to be named Crapnell now has been identified as Robert Renobome, wanted in San Francisco on charges of fraud and sought by police there.—United Press.

SILVER FORCES CLASH

DEFINITE RIFT AMONG GROUPS

NO CHANGE IN U.S. POLICY

Washington, Oct. 7.

In the light of recent developments there is a growing conviction on the part of interested observers that the united front which constituted the strength of Congressional silver forces no longer exists, although, on the other hand, there are no signs of any organised opposition to silver legislation.

The Silver Bloc, however, is apparently disintegrating in three directions. One faction, personified by Senator Elmer Thomas, whose principal objective is a price of $1.25 per ounce for silver to the exclusion of every other consideration, is now openly talking of abandoning the silver fight.

A second group, typified by the tobacco interests, which maintains that the silver policy has cut deeply into the tobacco sales to China, were largely instrumental in helping the silver Congressmen to rush the silver legislation through the Houses. They now not only admit that the silver policy has been destructive to trade but has been of doubtful value even to the silver producers.

PITTMAN'S GROUP

The third faction, which is still far the strongest, and whose leader is the Westerner, Senator Key Pittman, has managed to divert the threatened probing of the Treasury's silver purchases into the hands of his own special committee, whose first meeting is to be held at Salt Lake City on October 12. Thus, the investigation will be in the hands of the "Treasury's more friendly enemies."

Senator Pittman is supported by Senator King who is, opposed to the more radical demands of other groups. In a recent statement he said:

"The Treasury must not be made subservient to any special interests."

He advocated a more cautious procedure in connection with silver purchases. Thus, with most of the groups the Silver Purchase Act, silver circles expect little, if any, particular impetus to result from the findings of the Congressional investigation. On the other hand they expect no change in the Treasury policy.—Reuter.

OUTLAWED BY LEAGUE

UNANIMOUS VOTE AGAINST ITALY

ALOISI JESTS DURING SOLEMN SESSION

Geneva, Oct. 7.

By a unanimous verdict the League of Nations Council to-day morally outlawed Italy from the comity of civilized nations, declaring that Italy had had recourse to war in violation of the most sacred engagement.

Other members of the League are pledged to the ultimate severance of all trade or financial relations, and the prohibition of all intercourse with the Covenant-breaking state.

Moving scenes occurred in the Council Chamber when each member answered in the affirmative in reply to a question from the chairman whether he approved the report stigmatizing Italy in this manner. Baron Aloisi, whose features throughout the ordeal betrayed his deep personal concern in the issue, flicked a cigarette as the vote was recorded and made jesting remarks to M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, with a smile on his face. It was the smile of a gallant loser.

This was the first occasion in its history that the Council had decided to apply Article XVI; and this against one of the founder-members of the League!

ASSEMBLY NEXT

The next step will be for the League Assembly to associate itself with the Council's decision and a co-ordinating Committee will be appointed to deal with the measures necessary to institute economic sanctions. The Committee's first duty will be to prepare the plan of sanctions, which will probably include the interruption of diplomatic, but not of consular relations, and will probably remove the embargo on arms to Ethiopia.

The question of a blockade is not likely to arise immediately, but no doubt it will be considered if more moderate measures fail.

ALOISI FAILS

Baron Aloisi, the Italian chief delegate, was the first speaker at the public meeting of the Council. He complained that the Committee of Thirteen's report overlooked the essential point that persistent aggression had compelled the Italian action.

Italy, he argued, was now in a state of legitimate defence, which no international instrument even limited. All defensive preparations were carried out in the open and in daylight. And all arguments were futile as long as they were based on the abstract principle which places Ethiopia on the same footing as other members of the League of Nations.

HAWARIAT ANSWERS

The Ethiopian delegate, M. Hawariat, said he drew the conclusion from the League Committee's report that under no circumstances could Ethiopia be placed under any form of protectorate, domination or mandate without her free consent.

He concluded with an impassioned appeal to Italy, stating that the Ethiopian Government in this decisive hour hoped the Italian people would consult its conscience, its feelings of justice and right, and its religious faith.

He asked the Italian people to think of the suffering, ruin, and catastrophe which would certainly be brought upon Italy and Ethiopia by a long war. For, he reminded the Italian people, a long war it must be, since the Ethiopian (Continued on Page 5.)

ITALIANS SEVERELY SHOCKED

RESIGNATION FROM LEAGUE LIKELY

COUNCIL VOTE A SURPRISE

Rome, Oct. 7.

The League Council's decision to outlaw Italy, under the League Covenant, has unpleasantly shocked Italian opinion, which firmly believed that Geneva was veering towards the Italian viewpoint in the Ethiopian dispute.

It is now felt that as Signor Mussolini has emphasised that Italy would not leave the League unless driven to it, events are rapidly heading to a point where his Government's resignation can no longer be avoided.—Reuter.

SANCTIONS NEAR

Geneva, Oct. 7.

The possible proximity of the application of economic sanctions against Italy by League of Nations members was suggested to-day by the arrival here of British Treasury officials.

Baron Aloisi, Italy's spokesman, made an attempt to delay proceedings, saying he had had no time to consider and examine the Committee of Thirteen's report. He would therefore ask for an adjournment of the public meeting until to-morrow.

M. Hawariat, the Ethiopian spokesman, opposed this move.

The President of the Council suggested that the meeting resolve itself into a secret session without the Italian or Ethiopian members, and discuss the Italian application.

Here Mr. Anthony Eden, British Minister for League Affairs, warmly declared that he saw no reason why the matter should not be discussed publicly. But the chairman's proposal carried.

At the private meeting which ensued, however, the Italian application was rejected.—Reuter.

Nameless Graves For 419 Living
Men

ON ISLAND HELL

SIX HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-THREE convicts, banished by their country, abandoned by all but their truest friends, sailed from Ile de Re, near La Rochelle, on September 24 in a floating prison, the ship La Martiniere, bound for Devil's Island.

Two hundred and fifty-four of them are condemned to ten and fifteen years' hard labour, with the prospect of release if they can escape the fever and disease which give the island such a high mortality.

Nameless Graves

The other 419 are forbidden ever to return to France. They are condemned to death. Their only release is a nameless grave—to add to the thousands of such graves; the graves that make Devil's Island so apt a name.

The convicts themselves called the journey to French Guiana "Le Grand Voyage" because, like that of death, it is made without hope of return.

And those few relatives who went to the island fortress to see La Martiniere leave for Devil's Island were heavy mourning as if the husbands, sons and brothers they wept for were already dead. They had their last farewell.

For eight days they had been allowed an hour to visit and talk, and on the day before the departure fifteen minutes was allowed them to say goodbye.

Long before the ship sailed the cobbled streets of the little port of St. Martin de Re, which cluster about the great fortress prison of St. Martin, were echoing to the arrival of hundreds of holiday-makers from various parts of the island and from the mainland. Motor-coaches and ferry-boats ran special services. Windows of the shops and houses along the quay were filled with spectators.

Three steamboats waited alongside the quay to take the convicts on board La Martiniere, where the great iron cages, with their cement floors, had been made ready for them.

In the prison of St. Martin carrying both rifles and revolvers lined up the convicts and made them strip. Their mouths and hair were searched for banknotes, tobacco and other forbidden property.

Chained in Threes

Each convict was then given a new outfit with a blanket, and a bag containing underwear, sabots and a spoon. The dangerous convicts were chained in twos and threes by the wrists. The others were allowed the liberty of their hand and feet.

Some of them had been in St. Martin nearly two years. Others came from the prison at Rochefort and other great towns. Most of them were young, the majority had taken life, committed violent assaults, robbed with murder.

Calixte Jonila had killed three inspectors of police at Marseilles, Pierre Menon had killed his fiancée in Paris, Edmund Exasse had killed the assistant director of a Paris hospital; Armand Cabelot had stabbed twelve times a child of thirteen. There were

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, famous big game hunters, packing their load for a trek into the wilderness of British North Borneo, from where they hope to bring back another thrilling jungle film.

American Debutantes at Royal Courts

U.S. CONGRESS MAY FORBID FUTURE
PRESENTATIONS

New York, Oct. 3. The effort begun in the United States Congress to forbid American debutantes being presented at Royal Courts in London is receiving the full support of United States Government officials.

Representative Cannon, of Wisconsin, made the first move to end the custom in a resolution introduced to the House of Representatives which would ban presentations and also prevent American diplomatic representatives from wearing silk knee breeches at court functions.

"Deluged"

Diplomats gave their support to the proposal on the grounds that the Embassy in London is deluged every year with requests for presentations. Political influence, from that of the President down to members of Congress, is exerted by the leading families of America to win presentation for debutantes before the King and Queen.

The Embassy is allowed to present about ten American women at each of four courts, but the number of requests averages between three and four hundred every year. Diplomats are supporting the proposal regarding silk knee-breeches on the ground of the expense involved.

others who had not committed any great crime, but were habitual criminals.

They are boats of 300, 500 and 750 tons displacement with an action radius up to 8,200 sea miles.

British submarines at present range from the "II" class of between 400 and 500 tons to the XI, Britain's largest submarine, now in reserve, which has 2,800 tons displacement.

New Weapon

The new German U-boats can plunge to the exceptional depth of 300 feet. Water pressure at this depth is resisted by a specially-built outer hull which is light in weight in relation to its strength.

Highly efficient rotating pumps have increased rising speed by fifty per cent.

The modern U-boats are armed with a new weapon—an inflammable torpedo.

Incendiary material is added to the explosive charge in the proportion of 15 per cent. It is suggested that a single hit with such a missile would envelope a ship in flames.

U-boat building is going on day and night at the Marine-Werft, Wilhelmshaven; the Kieler Arsenal; Blohm and Voss, yards at Hamburg, and by other firms with wartime experience of U-boat technique.

Keeping Secrets

As in the case of airplanes, parts are manufactured separately and assembled later. Only a few engineers and foremen know what is being made.

Machinery is made at factories in Cologne and Dessau; torpedo tubes are made at Esslingen, Mannesmann, and the torpedoes are completed at the works of the Schwarzkopf firm in Berlin, with military and civil counter-espionage agents keeping guard to prevent any leakage of information.

Aeroplane Smuggling Is New Racket

AND IT WAS AN ENGLISHWOMAN WHO STARTED

PLANE-RUNNING is the latest smuggling "racket" and Abyssinia offers a ready market for those engaged in it. The Abyssinians are willing to pay big prices for modern machines, and the risk of getting planes into the country, particularly from the south, is negligible.

The process is a simple one. Owing to the country's failure to sign the Arms Convention, armaments cannot be exported from Britain to Abyssinia except under licence from the Foreign Office, and this has always been refused.

This embargo applies to warplanes exported from this country. There is, however, no ban on aircraft intended for commercial purposes.

Taking advantage of this fact, a number of machines have been shipped as commercial planes to some neutral country. There a trusted agent proceeds to make the necessary alterations, and in a few hours the machines have been converted into effective bombers and fighters.

These warplanes are then transhipped from the neutral country to Abyssinia. The terms of the embargo have been kept, and everyone is satisfied.

Ex-R.A.F. Machines

As in the case of motor-cars, new types of aircraft are constantly being brought out. There is always a plentiful supply of second-hand machines of comparatively recent date.

A number of these are former Royal Air Force planes, superseded by later types. These machines can be purchased either as they stand or in component parts.

Among second-hand commercial aircraft now on the market are such types as Avro Cadet, D.H. Hornet and D.H. Fox Moth. There are also Farley Foxes with a speed of 170 m.p.h. and Gipsy III. Special Moths, Gipsy Major Moths and even Rolls Bristol Fighters.

The latter, of course, need little or no alteration, and, of the other craft, the majority of them can, in the space of a few hours, be converted by experts into war machines, particularly for purposes of reconnaissance and bombing.

This aeroplane running was started by an enterprising young Englishwoman, who began operations during the Bolivia-Paraguay war in South America.

By means of a number of aliases, she bought up all the second-hand aircraft and their component parts that were on the market.

Her problem was to find secret storage space for these aircraft, and ultimately she used the vaults of a disused church in the Southern counties.

There the machines were stored until they were ready for shipment to a South American port, either as commercial aircraft or in their component parts.

In this way she was able to evade the embargo.

Science Fears Frankenstein Monster

It Has Created MAY LOOSE ON WORLD A REIGN OF TERROR

Scientists Cannot Solemn Statement Hold out Much By Sir Richard Gregory Longer

SIR Richard Gregory, F.R.S., one of Britain's great men of science, fears that science is growing into a Frankenstein monster which soon the scientists themselves will not be able to hold.

Other scientists agree with him. The fear has been growing for some years.

An attempt was made to band together leading men of science to put the monster in chains.

Two years ago the British Association formed a "brain trust" to do this. Sir Richard Gregory has had to admit that the attempt had failed.

He is afraid, and other men are afraid. They think that the scientist should not be able to let loose on the world a terror which could wipe out whole populations, and then allow his responsibility to end there.

"You would not give a child a packet of dangerous explosives," said Sir Richard. "But that is exactly what we have been doing."

"There are some of us who are beginning to be afraid of the prospects."

Norwich, Sept. 25. "THERE are many men of science who believe that the laboratories of to-day are producing a Frankenstein monster for to-morrow."

Those were Sir Richard Gregory's exact words in a special interview given at the British Association headquarters in Norwich.

Last Wednesday, in a dramatic speech given before the Norwich Rotarians, Sir Richard tried to tell the public that the man with a test tube is not a man with a load of mischief. He said that the use for good or evil of a discovery depended on the community.

Chlorine, he said, was used for bleaching long before it was used as a poison gas; thermite was used for welding railway lines before anybody thought of putting it into incendiary bombs.

Can Be Blamed

But in his interview Sir Richard admitted that scientists can be blamed, and that there is justification in the increasing uneasiness and suspicion with which the ordinary man is viewing the efforts of the laboratories.

"You would not give a child a packet of dangerous explosives to play with," he said. "But that is exactly what we have been doing."

Scientists as a whole still think that they can get along without any sense of responsibility about the effects of their work on the rest of society. And there are some of us who are beginning to be a little afraid of the prospects."

Sir Richard was directly asked: "Have you ever known of an instance where a scientist, having realised that a certain discovery may have harmful applications, has refrained from publishing it?"

"Never," answered Sir Richard with great emphasis. "He would publish. Ethical considerations of that kind are almost totally non-existent among scientists. To him, now, knowledge is the thing. A fact is a fact, and has nothing to do with good or evil."

New Mustard Gas

"A few weeks ago," he went on, "I saw a description in a technical journal of some new mustard gas."

"The scientist who published that paper did not speak of his discovery as a mustard gas. He never even thought of it in that way. He had merely effected a re-grouping of certain compounds."

"To him his achievement was merely an interesting piece of research in organic chemistry, and he just stated the facts."

"But the world has another dangerous gas."

"The biggest job which faces us today is to solve this old problem of the responsibility of the scientist with regard to his discoveries and the rest of the community."

"One item of research properly applied might find work for tens of thousands, and another throw thousands out of work."

"One result of research wisely applied may save human lives and another destroy them."

"It is manifestly wrong that the scientist's responsibility should end with the announcement of his discovery."

What has happened, Sir Richard was asked, to the great plans discussed by the British Association to help the country in social and economic planning and to act as a board of censorship on discoveries?

"Nothing," he answered sadly. "The plans seem to have been shelved. The present meeting of the British Association has not made any reference to any further steps."

Major A. G. Church, who, as an executive of the British Science Guild and the Association of Scientific Workers, was concerned with the British Association plans for a "brain trust," was not hopeful for the future.

"I have now resigned from active work within those associations," he said. "But I can tell you this—the efforts we made to get scientists to weld themselves together into a profession with a corporate sense of responsibility like lawyers, doctors, and others, have failed absolutely."

"Some time ago we made an attempt to find out how far scientists were prepared to limit themselves against work which might have harmful potentialities to the community."

Professor Sir Frederick Soddy, F.R.S., suggested a resolution that members should not accept subsidies to engage in special research work into poison gases for military purposes.

Arrogant Scientists

Our members would have none of it. Eventually a resolution was passed to the effect that university teachers should not accept subsidies for such work as this would be contrary to the spirit and traditions of learning.

"The trouble is that the average scientist is far more arrogant about his work than the normal man, and he declines to admit any measures which he considers a restriction on the pursuit of knowledge."

"But this freedom in research has great dangers to the world to-day. We ought to have an able like other professions. It is up to the great leaders of science to give a lead in this respect. It is time that the man in the laboratory realised how his work affects the man next door."

Jeritza's First Husband Says She Is Still His Wife

Vienna, Sept. 30.

OPERA star Marie Jeritza arrived at her lakeside villa at Unterach, in Upper Austria, to-day, and left at once on a mountain motor tour with her Hollywood film-producer husband, Mr. Winfield Sheehan.

Her Austrian husband, Baron Leopold Popper, declares she is still his wife; he knows nothing of any divorce.

WAR CHANGED HER NATIONALITY TWICE

Paris, Oct. 1.

A baroness, who has twice had her nationality changed by war, has celebrated her 103rd birthday in Alsace.

She is Baroness Hessa de Reinach (nee Anne de Gohr). She was born in 1832. Under Louis Philippe and under Napoleon III, she was a Frenchwoman.

Then, after the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, Alsace became German. The baroness then was a subject of the German Emperor.

The Great War gave her back her French nationality and enabled her once again to fly the tricolour over the Chateau of Hitzbach, near Altkirch, where she lives.

The baroness enjoys excellent health and every day goes for a walk in the park surrounding her home.—Reuter.

Film Bachelors—By Mae West, Spinster!

MAE WEST, the "spinster," submits to the public the following as her estimate of the twelve most eligible bachelors in Hollywood:

Cesare Romero, Lyle Talbot, Ivan Lebedeff, Jack Oakie, Randolph Scott, Nelson Eddy, James Dunn, Gene Raymond, Henry Wilcoxon, Whitney De Rham, Lee Tracy—and Baby, Leroy!

"Eligible bachelors are hard to find," Mae told an interviewer, "for, if they're eligible, they don't stay bachelors."

"I don't know all these men personally, mind. I judge a number of them purely by their work on the screen, and I may be wrong for a good director can do a lot for a man."

"Romero, now—he's a typical Latin lover. He'll do if you like your men tall, dark and handsome. Besides, he's from a hot country. (Mr. Romero is of Spanish descent.)"

"Lebedeff used to be in the Czar's army. He has the most graceful manners of any man I have ever met. He kisses your hand—but that, of course, can be improved upon."

"Lyle Talbot has that charming exterior that covers a real man type. He'd make any woman a good husband—if she wanted a good husband."

Of Henry Wilcoxon, the new British star, Mae said:

"They tell me he's a grand guy. Lee Tracy, now. Personally, I like Lee a lot, although they say a man who talks fast works slow."

—Reuter.

A friend of Mme. Jeritza said to-day: "Mme. Jeritza obtained what is called 'an Arkansas divorce.' Ninety days after her application she was divorced from the Baron on June 26, in Little Rock, according to Arkansas law. On August 12 she married Mr. Sheehan in Little Rock."

An Austrian lawyer said: "The position is mystifying. At the time of her marriage to Baron Popper Mme. Jeritza was an Austrian citizen. They married according to Austrian law."

"Therefore the marriage could be dissolved only according to Austrian law. Since it was a Roman Catholic marriage a divorce valid in the eyes of the Church is impossible."

"In Austria, therefore, Mme. Jeritza is still lawfully the wife of Baron Popper."

Baron Popper said that he had instructed his lawyers in Vienna and in the U.S.A.

WINGS FOR SOUTH SEA MISSIONARIES

AIRPLANES TO REACH ISLAND CANNIBALS

London, Oct. 1.

Flying missionaries will face the perils of the Australian Mandated Territory in North New Guinea, after the end of 1936, if the Church of England Melanesian Mission's plans are realised.

"The task is the most difficult, dangerous and important since the Solomon Islands' mission," said Rev. Stuart Artless, secretary of the home organisation of the mission.

"The territory is populated by 200,000 tribesmen, some cannibalistic, most of whom have never seen a white man. We are planning to send three of our most experienced missionaries, who realise that they will be taking their lives into their hands."

He referred to the immediate need of £2,000 to purchase an aeroplane, which is the only means of reaching the jungle settlement.

It is intended to name the plane the Southern Cross of the Air, following the tradition established by the mission's seven ships, all of which have been named Southern Cross.

Hugo Territory

The territory is 900 miles by 400, and it is expected that the cost will be at least £2,000 a year for the maintenance of three missionaries.

"Hundreds of gold prospectors are gathered at Wau waiting to enter the territory," said Mr. Artless, "and it is feared that contact between the whites and the primitive natives may lead to serious consequences. The mission aims, by Christian teaching, to counter demoralising influences."

THE SILENT GUIDE TO HONG KONG.

WHAT IT IS: The "Silent Guide" consists of a large illuminated street map of Hong Kong (18 feet by 6 feet). The map, which is coloured, is painted on a ground glass background, behind which are over 5,000 small lamps. At a convenient distance from the large map is a small switchboard containing a number of six inch glass panels for subscribers' names, addresses and telephone numbers, each with its own button switch.

WHERE IT WILL BE: At the entrance to the Star Ferry Wharf (Hong Kong side) where it will be seen by 90% of the tourists and other visitors arriving at Hong Kong, besides the many thousands of residents who make daily use of the Star Ferry on their way to and from business.

WHAT IT WILL DO: If anyone wishes to find the location of an office, hotel, theatre, bank, shop or other business in Hong Kong, he goes to the switchboard where he finds the names of subscribers, properly classified and arranged alphabetically. He presses the appropriate button and the subscriber's name on the panel board immediately lights up. At the same time, on the large street map, a coloured lamp will show the exact position of the office or shop, etc., he is looking for, and the quickest route will also be indicated by lighting up the road to be taken right the way from the Star

Ferry to his destination. Bus and tram routes will be shown by special coloured lamps. Subscribers' names will be in Chinese as well as English if desired, and an attendant will be stationed at the Switchboard to give assistance to strangers if required.

WHAT IT WILL COST: The service is free to the general public, and only a nominal charge will be made to subscribers of $36 per year per name panel. This fee will include a free insertion of the subscriber's name, address, particulars of his business, agencies carried, etc., in

THE "SILENT GUIDE DIRECTORY" which will be published in conjunction with the "Silent Guide" and which may be obtained from the attendant at the Star Ferry for ten cents. The Directory will contain a small replica of the large illuminated map for recording, with a pencil, any position or route located on the large map.

THE "SILENT GUIDE" invention is the property of the Tell-the-World Publishing Co., Rutton House, Duddell Street, who will be pleased to reserve name panel spaces on application. Patents have been applied for. The installation, which is expected to take six weeks from the time when the names of intending subscribers have been collected, is in the hands of Messrs. H. W. Buckingham & Co., Tai Ping Building.

U.S. NOT GUARDING HONGKONG

OFFICIAL DENIAL OF REPORTS

WASHINGTON STATEMENT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924, Received, October 8, 8.30 a.m.)

Washington, Oct. 7. A spokesman of the Navy Department today commented on reports from Hongkong stating that significance was being attached to the continued presence of the 13th, 14th and 15th Divisions of the United States 5th Destroyer Squadron, in view of the fact that several units of the British Squadron have left the Far East. The spokesman stated that the vessels were not being based on Hongkong, adding that the original schedule had not been changed. He further stated that it was usual for the fleet to make a prolonged stay in Hongkong every autumn, since the port was popular with the officers and men.

The rumour that there had been an Anglo-American agreement on the subject was denied, the spokesman saying there was nothing in it. He added that the vessels would proceed to French Indo-China waters on October 12.—United Press.

OFFICE COOLIE'S THEFT

GAOL FOR ROBBING EMPLOYER

Li Ling, 22, office coolie, pleaded guilty before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning to the theft, by servant, of $46, the property of the San On Import and Export firm, 144, Wing Lok Street, third floor.

Detective-Sergeant F. W. Fowle stated that defendant had been employed by the complainant firm for the past two months. On the night of October 5 he disappeared and the complainant, Lau Wai-hon, master of the firm, discovered that $46 had been taken from a wallet, which was in his jacket hanging up in the cubicle. On Sunday afternoon a detective on duty in Pokfulam Road recognised the defendant as a fook of the firm, and arrested him. The defendant had $19.70 in his possession. His wages were $20 a month. There was no criminal record against him. Defendant stated he had been in Hongkong for twenty years. Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was passed; the money found on the defendant to be given to the complainant.

ANOTHER CASE

Chan Muk-on, 21, tailor, was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour when he appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning charged with the theft of $25 from Sing Man-hoi, shop-keeper, at No. 733 Nathan Road on Sunday last. Inspector Portallion stated that on Sunday night accused slept at complainant's house and left early the next morning. Two hours later, complainant awoke and found that $25 was missing from his jacket and that defendant had gone. Defendant was later arrested on a Canton train. Defendant pleaded guilty to the theft of $20.

PROTECTING EUROPEANS

ADDIS ABABA'S PROCLAMATION

Addis Ababa, Oct. 7. Europeans here are favourably impressed by the proclamation issued by the Director of the Municipality stating that any Ethiopian insulting or molesting a European or damaging his property will be severely punished.

The proclamation adds: "The Italians have disappeared from the streets. The remaining Europeans are cultured people who come here with friendly intentions. Our reputation for the treatment of foreigners is good and must not be damaged."—Reuter.

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES

ETHIOPIANS HOLD THEIR GROUND

SEVERE CASUALTIES ON BOTH SIDES

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, Received Oct. 8, 8 a.m.)

Harrar, Oct. 7.

An official communique states that the Ethiopian troops are holding their ground on the northern and southern fronts, where the bitterest fighting is proceeding. Casualties on both sides are said to have been extremely heavy.

Although it has been a one-sided conflict, in which the Ethiopians are using spears, swords, knives and pistols, the troops of Emperor Selassie have nevertheless defeated the invaders in battle, despite their aeroplanes, tanks, artillery and machine-guns.

The Italians have claimed advances on the north, and have admittedly taken Adowa and Adigrat, but their aeroplane bombardments have failed to frighten the tribesmen, who are resisting stubbornly and with good effect in the rough country over which Italian troops are seeking to pass.—United Press.

NO FURTHER ADVANCE

Rome, Oct. 7. In the absence of news of a further Italian advance it is presumed in Rome that the armies are consolidating their positions, following the capture of Adowa, which will be linked up with the road system of Eritrea before the next advance begins, it is believed. Meanwhile, the Government is planning to increase its fighting strength in East Africa. Statistics disclose that 200,000 fighting men are already in the colonies and another 30,000 labourers, mostly road builders, accompany the troops.

MORE PLANES

Moreover, there are 350 war planes and 250 tanks in Africa under the Italian command. Three-quarters of the troops and the majority of the tanks are in Eritrea, concentrated for the drive into Ethiopia. The Air Force is expected to be increased in East Africa to a total of 800 planes before the end of the year.

A Royal decree has authorised the expenditure of $37,000,000 line up to 1944 for the construction of oil fuel depots for the Italian Navy. It is announced.—Reuter Special.

GREATER OPTIMISM

Addis Ababa, Oct. 7. A more optimistic feeling prevails in this city to-day than at any time since the outbreak of hostilities.

Intimates of the Emperor report that he is in the highest spirits, but outside observers are unable to see any signs justifying his optimism.

It was officially admitted to-day that Adowa had fallen into Italian hands, but it was stated that the town had been previously evacuated and that there had been no Ethiopian resistance.—Reuter.

UNPROTECTED CITIES

London, Oct. 7. Sir Sidney Barton, British Minister to Ethiopia, has requested the Foreign Office to make representations to Italy against bombing Addis Ababa and Dire-dawa, which are unprotected and the populations of which include many foreigners, as well as women and children.—United Press.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

THE BEST WAY TO CLIMB HIGHER IS TO BE ON THE LEVEL.—Anonymous.

Hongkong rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. to-day was 0.31 inch. The total since January 1 is 64.69 inches, against an average 79.69 inches.

Two cases of persons collapsing and dying in the street were reported to the police yesterday. Chan Yip, a coolie in the Kennedy Town slaughter house, collapsed in Belcher Street yesterday and died. He had been suffering with beriberi. The other victim was a man named Tam Man, who died in Spring Garden Lane. He had been sick for the past six months.

Charged with returning from banishment, Li Kwai, aged 56, unemployed, who admitted having been banished from the Colony on June 26 this year, was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning. Defendant had a previous criminal record for keeping a gaming house and one for a breach of the Deportation Ordinance.

With a previous conviction against him, Chan Kang, 29, unemployed, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistrate's Court this morning when he pleaded guilty to stealing an umbrella, the property of Kwan Chung, lavatory watchman in the Western Market. Acting Sub-Inspector Smith stated that defendant was arrested when attempting to pawn the article. Three weeks' hard labour was imposed. A similar sentence was given to Ho Ng, unemployed, for stealing 17 gunny sacks from 17, Queen's Road Central. Detective-sergeant Allen prosecuted.

An aged woman, Lai Yan-sze, 70, was blown down by a strong gust of wind while walking in Nam-chang Street, Kowloon, yesterday morning, and received injuries to her left arm. She was treated at the Kowloon Hospital. A four-year old boy, Li Kan-yuen, residing at No. 223 Cheung-shan Road, first floor, also received internal injuries when he was struck by a door and fell into the yard. He was standing in the doorway leading from the first floor into the yard, when a sudden gust of wind closed the door violently, striking him.

In honour of his appointment as an Unofficial member of the Legislative Council, Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo will be entertained at a dinner party by officials of the South China Athletic Association at Caroline Hill to-night.

For assaulting a married woman, Lai Chai, aged 21, in a scavenging lane near Pitt Street, Lam Ma-tung, 44, coolie, was fined $50 with the alternative of two months' hard labour when he appeared on remand before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning. Detective-Sergeant C. Downman stated that defendant and complainant were seen fighting on the ground in the lane. They were taken to the police station and later a detective was sent back and a seissor blade was found. There had been trouble between the two about a month ago, and they were taken before the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs.

Hui Sing, 22, unemployed, was sentenced to eight months' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court this morning when he pleaded guilty to charges of stealing a basket containing six pairs of shoes and four packets of pepper, and returning to the Colony before his term of banishment had been completed. The complainant on the theft charge was Wong Ying, 32, married woman. Acting Sub-Inspector Smith prosecuted. Another returned banished, Wong Sui, 28, who was deported for five years on August 20 last, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour. He admitted two previous convictions for returning.

A gust of wind blowing away the window curtain revealed to Revenue Officer Ward standing in the street, a man emptying opium from a tin into a jar, on the first floor of No. 114 Queen's Road Central, yesterday. The Revenue Officer went into the premises and there found a man, Ko Kam-leung, still engaged in emptying the opium from the tin into a jar. A woman, Li Yee-lau, was seated on a bed in the cubicle. Both were charged before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning, with possession of 1.7 lbs of prepared opium. The man denied the charge, saying he was only mixing the opium which belonged to the woman. The woman took the responsibility. The pleas were accepted, and the man was discharged, the woman being fined $70, in default, seven weeks' hard labour.

DETROIT WINS PENNANT

BEATS CHICAGO IN LAST INNING

ON GOSLIN'S SINGLE

Detroit, Oct. 7. Detroit Tigers, last year's runners-up for the baseball championship, won the title to-day when they took the sixth game of the series against the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field by four runs to three.

The Tigers won a thrilling match, the decision of which was still open until the ninth inning when Gordon Cochrane, the Tigers catcher, crossed the plate for the winning run on Goslin's single.

The Cubs batted first and during the nine innings they scored three runs from twelve hits against Tommy Bridges, who had Gordon Cochrane catching for him.

The Detroit Tigers, until the end of the eighth innings, had scored three runs against the pitching of Lawrence French, with Charley Hartnett catching.

When the Tigers went to bat in the ninth innings the score was therefore level. Norman Glifton was fanned while Gordon Cochrane singled. Charley Gehring was out on a sacrifice with Cochrane going to second.

Goslin then singled to send Cochrane across the plate for the winning run, and the championship.—United Press.

SLUGGING DUEL

Detroit, Oct. 7. Detroit Tigers won their first world championship by beating the Chicago Cubs 4 to 3 in the sixth game of the world series to-day after a slugging duel in which the lead changed a half dozen times.

A howling crowd of 48,423, the greatest baseball crowd in Detroit's history, saw the match. The issue was in doubt until the last inning when the veteran Goslin drove Cochrane home with a single and gained the deciding run.—Reuter.

U.S. SEAMAN FINED

FOR ASSAULT ON HOUSEBOY

Fines totalling $50 were imposed upon Frank Reese, aged 26, a seaman of the U.S.S. Black Hawk, when he appeared on remand before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning on charges of behaving in a drunk and disorderly manner and assaulting Sun King-sun, houseboy, last Friday.

The complainant stated that he was employed as a boy at a house in Hankow Road. About 7 p.m. on the night in question witness heard a knock on the front door, and when he opened it, he saw defendant wearing only a pair of trousers. Defendant had nothing on the upper part of the body. Witness said, "Who are you?" but defendant did not reply and pushed witness.

Defendant walked into the flat and witness was about to go and tell his master when defendant caught him by the waist and pushed him down. Witness got up and ran into the bathroom and called for his master. About ten minutes later, defendant came again and knocked on the door, so witness was sent off to fetch the police.

Further evidence was given by Sergeant J. Sykes. In fineing the accused $26 on each count, the Magistrate stated that he had to bear in mind that defendant had stripped to the waist and that was not a very pleasant thing. "We cannot allow you to get drunk and get away with it," he added. Inspector Stimson appeared for the prosecution.

PRINCE HENRY'S BRIDE

TO BE GIVEN AWAY BY BROTHER

London, Oct. 7. Owing to the indisposition of the Duke of Buccleuch, father of the Duke of Gloucester's fiancée, Lady Alice Scott, she will be given away by her brother, the Earl of Dalkeith, when she is married at Westminster Abbey on November 6.

The Earl is a great personal friend of the Royal bridegroom. As a result of further conferences between the Court and the ecclesiastical authorities, plans for the wedding are nearing completion.—British Wireless.

THRILLING GOLF IN ROYAL MID-SURREY TOURNAMENT

PERCY ALLISS BEATS L. J. COX

GREAT GAME PLAYED BY TWO RYDER CUP PLAYERS IN THIRD ROUND

PADGHAM DEFEATS WHITCOMBE ON NINETEENTH GREEN

By VAGRANT

London, Sept. 12.

More sunshine, more great games at Royal Mid-Surrey yesterday, when the second and third rounds of the News of the World £1,250 tournament were played.

Of the Ryder Cup nominees, Padgham beat his captain, C. A. Whitcombe, at the 19th—what a game!—Alliss beat Cox, and Perry and Burton both survived.

Looking back over a crowded day's play I suppose the Alliss-Cox match was the best of the lot, though the third round meeting between Padgham and C. A. Whitcombe was so filled with thrills that it is a little difficult to know where to begin.

Renowned down the years for its epicurean lunches, and no man is a golfer till he has tasted the succulent ones, Royal Mid-Surrey was subjected to the unique experience of picnic parties in the car-park beneath its scattered shades. At 12.25 all the world, and everybody's wife, was abroad to see Alliss hole a long putt for a winning three against Cox. Grim fighting halves followed to the 5th, where Alliss, over the back of the green with his tee-shot, pitched back and holed a large-sized man's putt for 3. Cox, after a patient and apparently disinterested wait, holed a 7-footer for 2 and squared the match.

AN EXPENSIVE ERROR

At the 7th Alliss popped a grand second up four feet from the pin and holed the putt to take the lead. At the short 8th Cox made one of those costly mistakes, the club-house, excitedly, for a win in 3 at the long ninth, and with a score of 32 out turned three up. Cox with 35 out was wondering where the tornado would next develop.

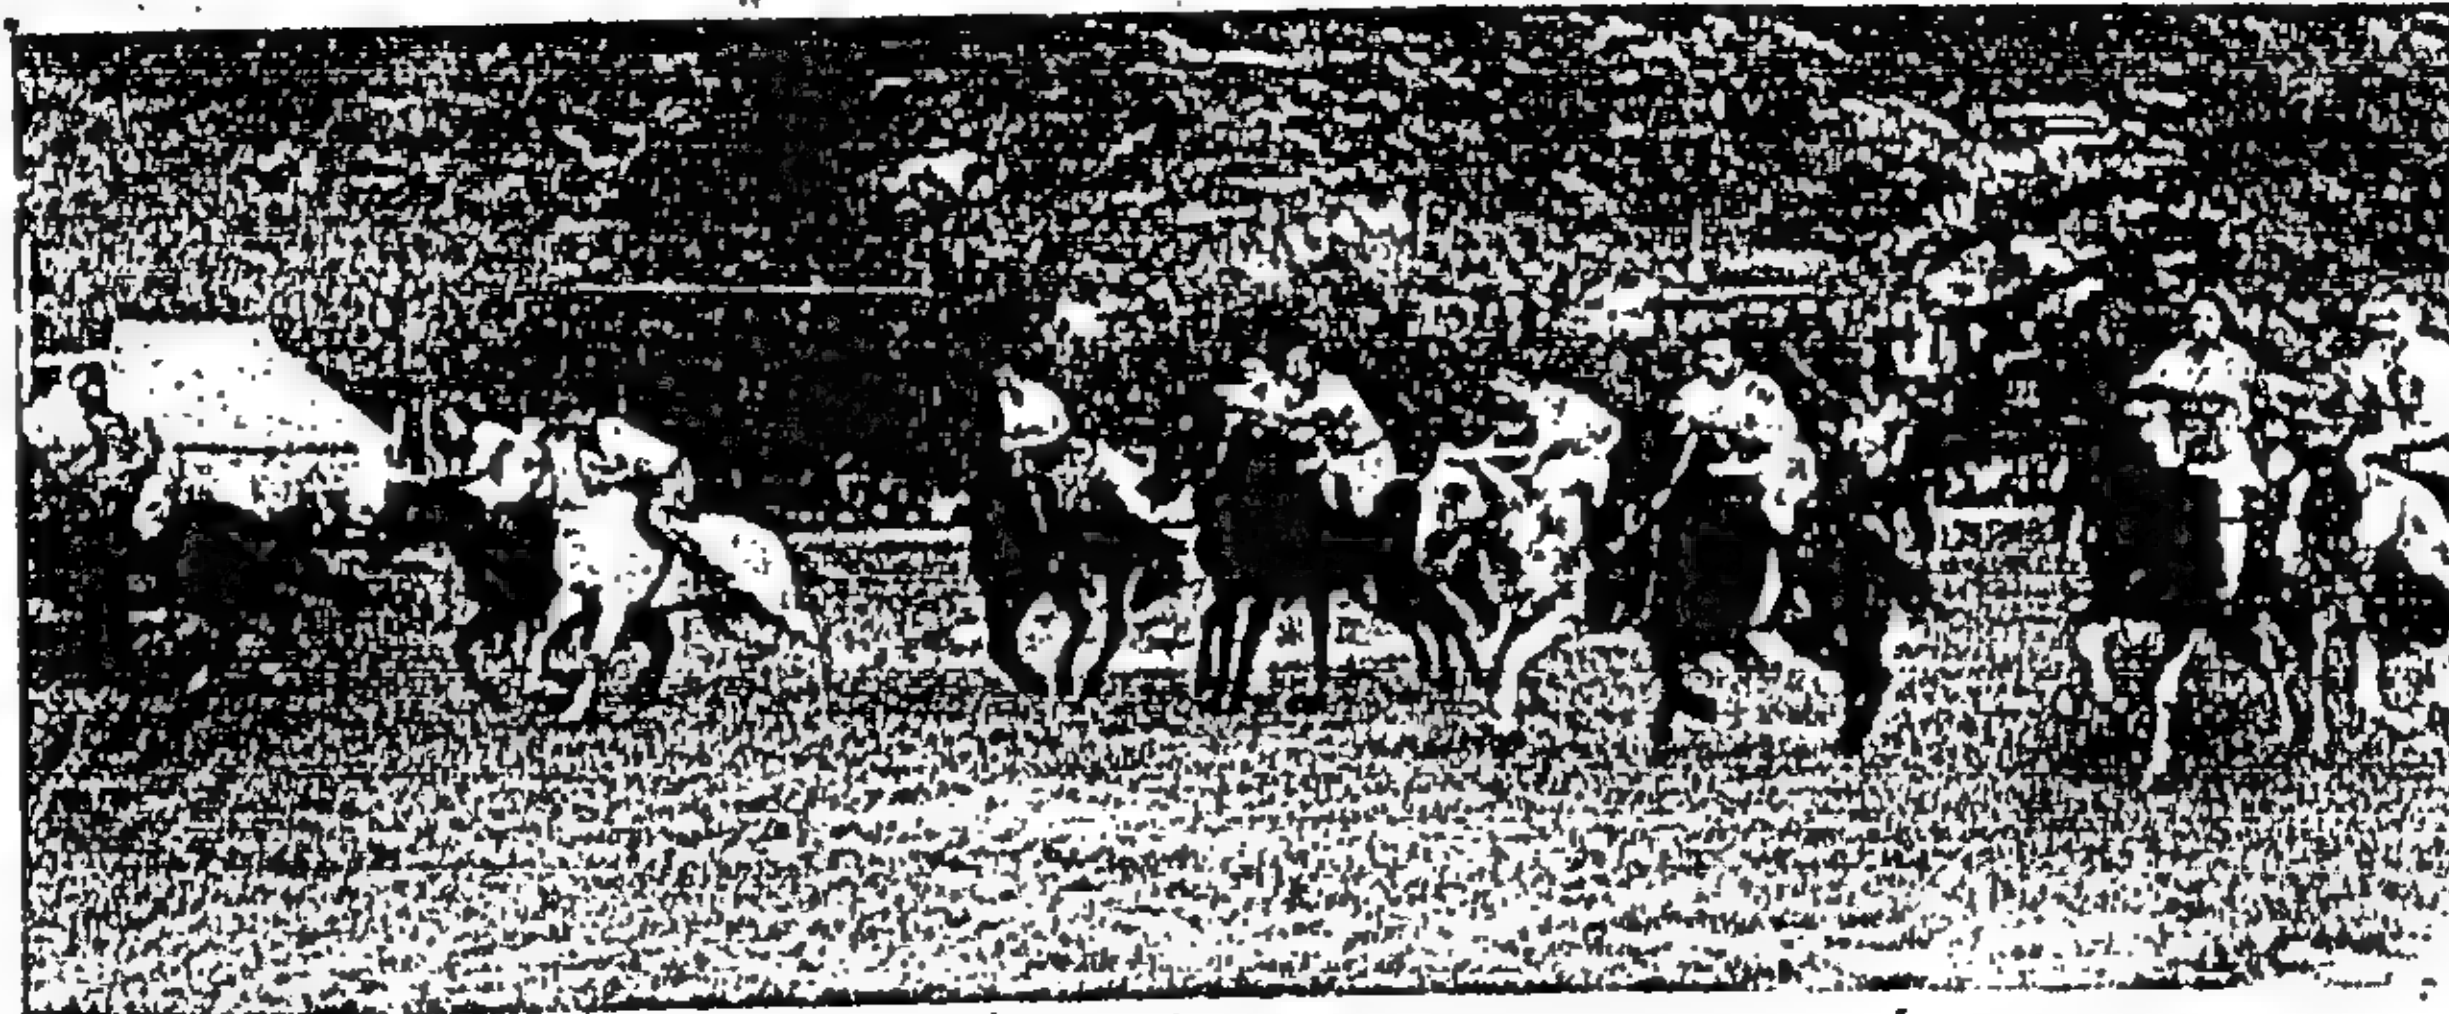

Cox did win the long ninth, saved the 10th after an erratic approach putt, then made another expensive error at the 14th. This is a long hole with a sloping green. When Robson played Higon here some years ago the American watched his opponent's second finish with a stationary thumb half-way up the slope. He then took a straight-faced club and played a classic running shot which finished near the hole.

Yesterday Cox took a minor iron and finished with the sincerest form of flattery for a half in 5. Then he put his second in a stationary thumb half-way up the slope, and the game was virtually over. The short 16th is full of horrors for those who frequent it; to the casual genius it means nothing; and a half in 3 concluded a most interesting game.

A GREAT GAME

The other great game of the day was the meeting of C. A. Whitcombe and Padgham in the 2nd round. An extensive fate saw the Ryder Cup team captain win the first hole with his opponent first away to the right, then over the green with his second. An astonishing second hole saw the match squared by Padgham, who hit the immortal clinch with his second, to see his ball bound back on to the fairway. He put it on the green with a most indifferent second, and holed the putt. Whitcombe, rarely surprised, was 12 feet short with his approach putt, and failed with the next. A battle of contrasted styles developed.

BEGINNING TO BENEFIT

CLUBS RELIEVED OF TAX

SAVING OF £15 TO ROCHDALE

Already clubs are beginning to benefit from the relief in the entertainment tax. There is now no tax on the sixpenny admission fee, whereas, until this season, it was a penny, writes Frank M. Carruthers.

I am told that this meant a saving of £15 to Rochdale on their first gate. In view of the fact that, like all the other League clubs, they charge 1s. admission, this may be puzzling; but it is explained by the arrangement of admitting spectators at half price at half-time.

This system is general, and, in Lancashire in particular, hundreds of enthusiasts who cannot afford to pay 1s. wait outside the grounds until they are admitted for 6d. An average of £15 a match means a saving of £300 a year, which is a considerable sum for many clubs. Indeed, to all the clubs outside the League who play to a 6d. gate—amateurs as well as professionals—the relief in the entertainment tax promises to be much more important than has been realised.

OLYMPIC SHOOTING

PRIZE MONEY SHOCK FOR MARKSMEN

Johannesburg, Sept. 6. An announcement by the International Shooting Union that all shots who received money as a prize in any rifle-shooting competition after August 1, 1934, must be classed as professionals, will make all South Africa's best marksmen ineligible to compete in the Olympic Games.

An invitation had been received from the German Olympic Games Committee to send a rifle-shooting team to the games in Berlin next year. But practically every competition in South Africa carries a money prize.

A special meeting of the South African Olympic Games Committee and British Empire Games Association is to be held to consider the question.

Benny Lynch Wins Three Boxing Titles

HOW HE SECURED SENSATIONAL VICTORY AT MANCHESTER

(By Geoffrey Simpson)

Manchester, Sept. 7.

The most sensational fly-weight victory since Jimmy Wilde was cock o' the walk was gained by Benny Lynch, the midget Glasgow fighter, when he stopped Jackie Brown, 8st. champion of the world, in the second round of a hectic battle at Belle Vue here to-night.

Three championships—the British, European, and world crowns—changed hands in the space of 4min. 42sec., and in that brief time the crunching fists of Lynch sent the hitherto unconquerable Brown toppling to the canvas no fewer than ten times. From the time that the fiery Scot dropped the champion with the nearest of left hooks, for the first count, the contest was waged to the accompaniment of a never-ending tumult of cheers and excited shouts.

CROWD'S FRENZY

Never has a champion been so dramatically and devastatingly humbled as was Brown. He was constantly getting up, and being knocked down again, and at the finish the Scottish contingent in the crowd, unable to control their excitement, rushed the ring.

Police had to climb through the ropes to restrain their enthusiasm. But for all their efforts Lynch was pulled violently out of the ring by his countrymen and borne triumphantly shoulder-high from the arena.

Brown, dazed and shaken from the vicious hooks which had rained on his jaw, seemed completely bewildered by the drama of the scene.

DOWN AGAIN—AND AGAIN

Brown made a big mistake in rising so rapidly from his first knock-down. He may have felt the indignity keenly, but it was nevertheless a blunder not to give his scattered senses an opportunity to return to normal.

For he was barely upright again, then Lynch, ducking smartly under a defensive lift, pounded Brown's body with a truly wicked left hook.

Down went Brown again, and when a few seconds later a grand straight right to the chin scored a knock-down number three, the fight was as good as over.

Twice more Brown measured his length on the canvas, but more from weakness than actual blows, and he was in a decidedly bad way when he returned to his corner.

The second round revealed Lynch as a real firebrand. With the scent of victory in his nostrils he was after Brown like a terrier, pummeling away at the body to prepare a path for his round-arm blows to the jaw.

Brown retaliated with magnificent spirit. His efforts to stave off disaster were almost as magnificent as the Scot's storming attack. But Lynch was right on top and was hitting fast and hard and true.

Another left hook—how well Lynch delivers this match-winning blow—and the title-holder made his sixth acquaintance with the resin.

There was a count of six this time though owing to the general tumult I doubt if he knew much about it.

Brown then took four more brief tumbles because his legs simply refused to support him, and the end came with him pinned in a corner helpless to defend himself.

The referee tore Lynch away from the "kill" and thrust his hand aloft. It was all over.

Some declared that the official acted hastily, but though Brown was actually in his feet when the closure was applied he was in no condition to continue the struggle.

Thus an ex-messenger boy and graduate of a travelling boxing booth is, at 21 years of age, king of the world's fly-weights.

SHANGHAI BOWLERS DELAYED

DUE TO-MORROW AFTERNOON

A SLIGHT CHANGE NECESSARY

(By "Sagax")

Further disappointment has befallen Hongkong lawn bowlers in connection with the visit from Shanghai of the Interport team which was to have arrived to-morrow for their opening match against the combined Police R. C. and Civil Service C. C. rink in the afternoon.

Original information was that the team, which is travelling by the Empress of Russia, would arrive early to-morrow morning and a revised programme of matches was recently accordingly drawn up. Now it is learned the ship will not arrive until five o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the earliest, while if the bad weather has had any effect on the voyage it may even be later.

In any case it is impossible to play off to-morrow's match against the Police and Civil Service. The first interport game on Thursday, however, will not be changed.

Shanghai will be able to have a roll up on Thursday morning on any green they choose and they will be required to play Hongkong in the afternoon on the Club de Recreo Green.

It is not yet known what arrangements are to be made regarding to-morrow's match but it is understood that Shanghai will be asked if they are prepared to play this game on Sunday morning. If not then it may be substituted for the fixture on October 17 against the Hongkong Football Club, Yacht Club, and Hongkong Electric.

There has been at least one change in the composition of the club rinks which are to meet Shanghai. It. Duncan, the Colony's champion, has declined the invitation of the Association to represent the Kowloon Bowling Green against the visitors on Sunday and his place will be taken by M. Henderson, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club.

year they must assemble on July 27. This is to make sure that the children will be in Berlin on August 1 to line the triumphal way along which the procession to the coronation opening of the Games will pass in the afternoon and for the festival play in the evening.

Other German schools are to adjust their holidays so as to make them include the period during which the Games are proceeding—from August 1 to 16—the aim being to give pupils and masters an opportunity to attend.

HOME SOCCER PROSPECTS

NO. 44: CLAPTON O.

P. PROUDFOOT'S RETURN

(By CHARLES BUCHAN)

Having gone through a process of reorganisation, a Clapton Orient are looking forward to the coming season with complete confidence. It is time that the Orient took a step along the road to prosperity after several years of severe depression, and a big effort has been made to effect the improvement.

Under the management of Peter Proudfoot, who guided the Orient in earlier days, there has been a general overhaul of the playing staff. Only 12 of the old players have been retained, while 12 newcomers will attempt to place the Orient in a more comfortable situation. In addition, there are on a month's trial three players who, it is hoped, will strengthen the playing resources.

Among the newcomers in defence are Herrod, once well-known back from Halifax; Atleek, a go-ahead centre-half from Bristol City, and Reed and Heinemann, last season with Crystal Palace. In the forward line great things are expected from a new left wing consisting of Pateman (Bradford City), while Edwards, from Bury, Rangers, Lincoln and Huddersfield, a young local centre-forward, are challengers for places in the attack.

Judging from the practice matches, the Orient are much stronger than they were last season. There is ability in every department combined with the asset of physical strength. All that remains is to find the right blend of the players at their disposal in the quickest possible time.

Although I do not expect the Orient to play any part in the Southern Section promotion race, I will be surprised if they do not occupy a respectable position in the table. The forward line is likely to provide the only problem. An opportunist, like Halliday, now the manager at Yeovil, may be lacking, so they may not reap the full benefit from clever, midfield play.

Orient's bold policy is deserving of a good reward in the shape of higher gates at Lea Bridge Road. For years now they have struggled on with gates unworthy of a team of their standing. This season, with the improvement in the standard of play, I hope there will be a considerable increase in the attendances.

people was resolved to resist to death.

REPORT ADOPTED

The Council, thereupon, adopted the report of the Committee of Thirteen, Italy alone voting in the negative.

The President of the Council announced that the first thing that was necessary was that hostilities should immediately cease and the Council remained at the disposal of the parties to the dispute to assist in arriving at a peaceful arrangement, if that were possible.

The Council also adopted the report of the Committee of Six, Baron Aloisi expressing his disapproval of the report and reserving his right to submit observations later.

After the vote was taken the Chairman solemnly declared that fourteen members of the League Council had registered a vote that a state of war existed in disregard of Article XII of the Covenant. Members would now consider the fulfilment of their duty under Article XVI of the Covenant. They could not neglect those duties without failing in the role of members, he declared.—Reuter.

SEVERE TERMS

(Special to "Telegraph").

Geneva, Oct. 7. The League Council has voted to apply sanctions against Italy, Italy voted "No," but inasmuch as the vote of any interested party does not count, the Council vote is technically unanimous.

The Council motion, expressed in severe terms, reads that "Italy has resorted to war in disregard of its covenant under Article XII," which provides for submission of the dispute to arbitration and no resort to war within three months after the Council's decision has been returned.

Italy is now automatically subject to Article XVI, providing that members of the League who resort to war will be subject to the severance of all trade or financial relations. Some jurists believe that the Council has automatically admitted the existence of a state of war between thirteen nations and Italy.

The nature of the penalties will be arranged when the Assembly meets on Wednesday to adopt the Council's report. A co-ordinating committee will be appointed the same day, and the United States may be invited to send an observer to this committee.

WIDE SUPPORT

It is noteworthy that the Council's decision binds only thirteen. However, virtually all members of the League are expected to announce similar decisions during the Assembly meeting.

The Council also adopted the report of the Committee of Thirteen, declaring Ethiopia innocent of aggression.

ANGLO-ITALIAN STRUGGLE

At a private meeting of the Council, held earlier, it was decided to telegraph to the Ethiopians urging them to cease fighting. The British and Italian delegates struggled bitterly during the secret session. Baron Aloisi protested against holding a public meeting to-day, demanding time to study the report of the Committee of Six, holding that Italy had resorted to war in violation of the Covenant.

Mr. Anthony Eden, on the other hand, insisted on a public discussion immediately, with Italy present, and the Council supported Mr. Eden's demand.

It is learned that Ethiopia intends to demand the withdrawal of all Italian soldiers from her soil prior to any peace negotiations.

The report of the Committee of Six states that the resort to war is contrary to Article XII of the Covenant, adding that "the adoption of military measures by a State on its own territory does not authorise another State to free itself from its obligations." The report also denies the Italian claim of Ethiopian aggression, says the Kellogg Pact, to which Italy and Ethiopia are signatories, condemns warfare and obliges peaceful settlements, and adds that the Ethiopians have not broken the Covenant.—United Press.

FRANCO-BRITISH

Ambassador on September 24 by the Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, says that the suggestions of the British Government for mutual support in circumstances envisaged in that enquiry fills very opportunely the gap in the system of collective security to which the two Governments are firmly attached.

Such an obligation, however, must be reciprocal, must apply equally on land, sea and in the air, must apply in relation to non-members as well as members of the League of Nations and should involve the closest collaboration between the two Governments.

Subject to these conditions the French Government is ready to assume with regard to Britain the following undertakings:

"If either of the two powers judges it necessary to take military, naval or air measures with a view to placing itself in a position to carry out in case of need its obligations of assistance arising out of the Covenant of the League or treaties of Locarno, it will enter into consultation on the subject with the other Power. The procedure shall be similar if, either of the two Powers judges it necessary to take military, naval or air measures with a view to placing itself in a position to meet, should it arise, a situation in which under the Covenant or treaties of Locarno it would be entitled to receive assistance of the other Power."

The fact that one or other of the two Powers after consultation and a resulting agreement takes the measures referred to above, shall not on that account be regarded as constituting provocation such as would justify any failure by a third state to fulfil its international obligations. If either of the two powers is attacked on account of such measures taken after consultation and agreement, the other Power will render it assistance."

The French Government asks for a reciprocal undertaking on the part of the British Government. It is understood the British Government desires to elucidate certain points in the French reply.—British Wireless.

BLACK LISTS IELEGAL

San Francisco, Oct. 7. Employers, embroiled in the threatened longshoremen's strike here, have proposed immediate compliance with the ruling of Judge Sloss, who has been hearing workers' complaints, that black lists are illegal. They will retain no black lists of those refusing to work cargo of strike affected steamers and the "hot" cargo dispute remains unsettled.—United Press.

AIRLINER MISSING

Atlantic City, Oct. 7. A Standard Oil Company airliner, bound from Oakland to Atlantic City, has been silent since 2:02 a.m. Sunday. It carried a pilot, Robert Allen, and two co-pilots, Allen Lenz and George Adelman, but no passengers. It is feared it has plunged near Salt Lake City.—United Press.

HUNTING FIEND

Seattle, Oct. 7. Police throughout the north-west states are hunting for a friend who assaulted seven-year-old Sally Kelly, daughter of a lending Seattle druggist, and then hanged from a bridge only 100 feet from her home.—United Press.

THREAT TO MAE WEST

Hollywood, Oct. 7. Seven men have been arrested in connection with an alleged plot to extort $1,000 from the film star, Mae West, under threats of disfiguring her with acid.—Reuter.

At the concert at St. Andrew's Church Hall, Kowloon, at 9 o'clock to-night, Madame Lottie Gordon will, in addition to her programme, give several request numbers of both Australian and Hongkong music including her compositions "Two Songs for the World Peace," "Two Songs for the World Peace," "In the Australian Bush," "Song in the Little Bush," "Little Willy Wag-Tail," "Aussie Soldier Song," (Australian Monologue), "Australian Corroboree and Dance," (Piano), "Bush Love Story," "Australian Minuet" and "Wee-wee-wee," (Egyptian tone poems by Frederick Hall, (Australian composer), Hongkong music, etc. Amongst the young artists assisting are five honour candidates of Trinity College. A collection will be taken for the Blind Girls' home, and the Hongkong Music Link, for the advancement and assistance of young musical artists.

At the last meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club it was announced that Mr. A. Morley was elected President in succession to Mr. G. W. Phillips. Mr. Morley was chosen the new vice-President and Mr. Hans Berents was co-opted on the Board of Directors to fill the vacancy. Mr. Morley is well-known in Hongkong.

OCCUPYING DOLO

Rome, Oct. 7. The Italian occupation of Dolo (in the south of Ethiopia) where Italian Somaliland and Kenya frontiers end in a juncture with the Ethiopian frontier, cuts off the Ethiopian communication with the outer South.

It is noteworthy that Dolo controls three water courses, permitting the Italian armies to march along the river valleys westward and north-west and to make a juncture with the troops invading Ethiopia from Central Somaliland.

All will then push towards Jijiga and Harar.—United Press.

NO RESISTANCE

Addis Ababa, Oct. 7. Emperor Selassie has telegraphed to the League of Nations that the Ethiopian army has obeyed orders and has not resisted the Italian advance.

He claims that the Ethiopians surrendered Addis in accordance with a clearly defined plan, and in order to establish Italy the aggressor.

Now, however, Ethiopia will begin to fight. Ethiopians insist that reports of bomb casualties have been exaggerated. For example, they claim that the 300 bombs dropped on Borraza killed only five and wounded 15.—United Press.

CANTON AND NANKING

ATTITUDE OF SOUTH
STIFFENS

Canton, Oct. 7. From all indications Canton's attitude towards Nanking is definitely stiffening. Mr. Hsiao Fu-chen, aged statesman and most outspoken in his opposition to Nanking, has already left Slam and is expected to be due back in Canton on October 13.

It is understood that the final decision regarding the question of the Fifth National Congress will be taken after the return of Mr. Hsiao.

In the meantime the suggestion is made in some quarters that Canton may follow the 1931 precedent, and convoke a separate Congress here, but official confirmation of this is totally lacking.—Reuter.

"It's a mere formality, I know," he began, "but we thought it would be pleasing to you if it were observed in the usual way."
"And may I inquire," the father asked, "who suggested that asking my consent to Betty's marriage was a mere formality?"
"Betty's mother."

"My doctor is going to play Beechoven to-night."
"I hope she wins."

THE DOUBLE TENTH
GREAT MILITARY REVIEW
AT CANTON

Canton, Oct. 7. One of the outstanding features of the big celebration here on the National Day will be the military review at which over 23,000 men selected from the Provincial Forces are expected to participate.

These will include special units from the Canton Training Division, the Gendarmes, Naval Cadets, Police, and Air Force. Over 80 aeroplanes from different Air Squadrons are expected to turn out on the 10th.

The Review will start at 10 o'clock in the morning, when General Chan Chai-long and other high military officials will inspect the Defence Forces at the Parade Ground of the Yin Tong Military Academy.

Besides the military review the Air Squadrons will give a display of modern air tactics including flight in formation and stunt flying. —Wah Kiu Yat Po.

THE AGGRESSOR

The naming of Italy as the aggressor in the dispute with Ethiopia marks a definite step in the measures which the League of Nations is taking with the eventual aim of stopping this war of conquest. No other decision could, in face of the facts, be reached. Italy, as a member of the League, has entered into definite obligations to co-operate in the maintenance of peace; Ethiopia, also a League member, is entitled to all the assistance and protection which such membership is supposed to ensure. But the position is much clearer when we put generalities aside and come down to actual happenings. Under Article XII of the Covenant, members of the League agree, when any dispute likely to lead to a rupture arises, to submit the matter either to arbitration or judicial settlement or to enquiry by the Council, and, further, "in no case to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators or the judicial decision or the report of the Council." In the present dispute, Italy has been a party to the League Council enquiry, attending its meetings and taking part in its discussions. Yet, even before the Council has made its report, she has begun hostilities against Ethiopia. A specious attempt has been made by Baron Aloisi, the chief Italian delegate, to justify Italy's invasion by claiming that the Ethiopians have been the aggressors for several years, and that the present Italian operations "are legitimate and within the framework of the Covenant." The argument is that Italy is merely embarking on "defence measures." But the over-riding fact is that the Covenant does not recognise the right of any nation to determine for itself, who has committed aggression; therefore, there can be no question of Italy's action being within the framework of that document. It is possible to read into the Kellogg Pact the right of a nation to engage in what might be termed "defensive aggression," but no such contingency is provided for in the League Covenant machinery. Facts show that Italy has definitely broken her pledge not to go to war until three months after the League Council issues its report; she therefore renders herself liable to the application of such measures as the League may determine. The logic of the matter is be-

NOTES OF THE DAY

NAVAL SECRETS

When we have heard complaints of embittered news correspondents who have collided with that inarticulate modesty of the British Navy, and sometimes when we ourselves have been put out by that same silence of the Senior Service, we have attempted to ease the smart by remembering what journalists, and others, in other lands than ours have to bear. To take a picture of naval operations or even to be seen carrying a camera in the "prohibited areas" in Japan is a serious offence. Foreign ships which from time to time have found themselves in these forbidden waters have had difficulty in securing their release. But the climax, we feel, has been reached in the detention in Tokyo of 700 Japanese passengers of a cruise ship which took these people for a view of naval activities off Tokyo following the recent manoeuvres. Two of those aboard were observed to have taken snapshots and in consequence the whole of the 700 were held for questioning by gendarmes when they returned to the dock-side. The fact that the Japanese authorities take such a serious view of this sort of breach makes us conscious that the nation's naval secrets are worth guarding and allows us to sympathise a little with those officers who must decline to give the public information respecting activities and movements of the fleet in times of emergency.

LUCKY HONGKONG

Once again Hongkong has escaped the full force of a typhoon which for a time seemed to be threatening. There are things about this Colony of which our residents complain. Our summers are too long and too damp and our winters are too cold; our rates are too high and our rents are outrageously expensive; and the cost of entertainment causes the reproach of hospitality. But taking it all in all, life is not too bad for the average man here. Take a Government servant, for instance, who, as Sir Henry Pollock has pointed out, has advantages enjoyed by few. He has the benefit of reduced rentals, fixed pay (and no cuts), free transportation in some cases, sports and club facilities not enjoyed by the average man, free passage for himself and family when his leave comes due, and a satisfying sort of holiday, with pay (and no cuts), after he has served his sentence, so to speak. Yet he is not the only man in Hongkong who should be happy. As long as taxes are not increased, and the dollar stays at a normal level, as long as there is no snow in winter and the typhoons keep on passing a hundred miles or so away, there is no valid reason why the rank and file should complain. If ever you feel down in the mouth, a wise man said the other day, consider the coolie who packs you up the Peak. "How would you like to have to earn a living?"

SHOWING THEM HOW

We did not hear very much about this team of Hongkong soccer players, which went to play against Shanghai the other day. And it was not until late yesterday that we discovered what they did to the Shanghai police on Sunday afternoon. They scored ten goals without a reply from the guardians of the International Settlement's laws. That does not mean, of course, that the Hongkong team is anything extraordinary. Take away the six goals which that young gentleman Lee Wai-tong scored, and the count would have been respectable, but not so impressive. Lee Wai-tong did not need the encouragement his team-mates gave to him, it would appear. He was quite capable of beating the Shanghai police all by himself. It does not require our endorsement to make acceptable the assertion that he is probably the finest soccer player ever to come out of South China; and the North, too, for that matter.

yond dispute. The irony of the situation is that the League machinery should be so slow in operation that the aggressor has already started hostilities, but in these matters the procedure laid down, cumbersome though it is, must be adhered to. Nothing, it is now clear, will stop Italy in her war of conquest except united opposition on the part of other League members. Happily, the indications are that unanimity is assured.

ADOWA: the ITALIAN DISASTER of 1896.

Italian officers who fought in Abyssinia in 1896. A group of whom were killed at Adowa, where Italy lost 4,600 while troops killed and wounded.

General Matteo Albertone, who was taken prisoner by the Abyssinians at the battle of Adowa.

TO the Italian forces in Ethiopia the strategic value of capturing Adowa was of much less importance than the moral effect such a victory had in Italy itself.

Adowa is a blot on a disastrous page of Italian history.

Forty years ago next March, the legions of Rome suffered, on the field of Adowa, its greatest defeat and humiliation since the days of the decline of the Roman Empire.

To-day, the first Battle of Adowa is vividly in the minds of Italian and Ethiopians alike, and its memory has played no small part in the development of the present crisis. To wipe out the stain in its military history was Italy's first object in the present campaign.

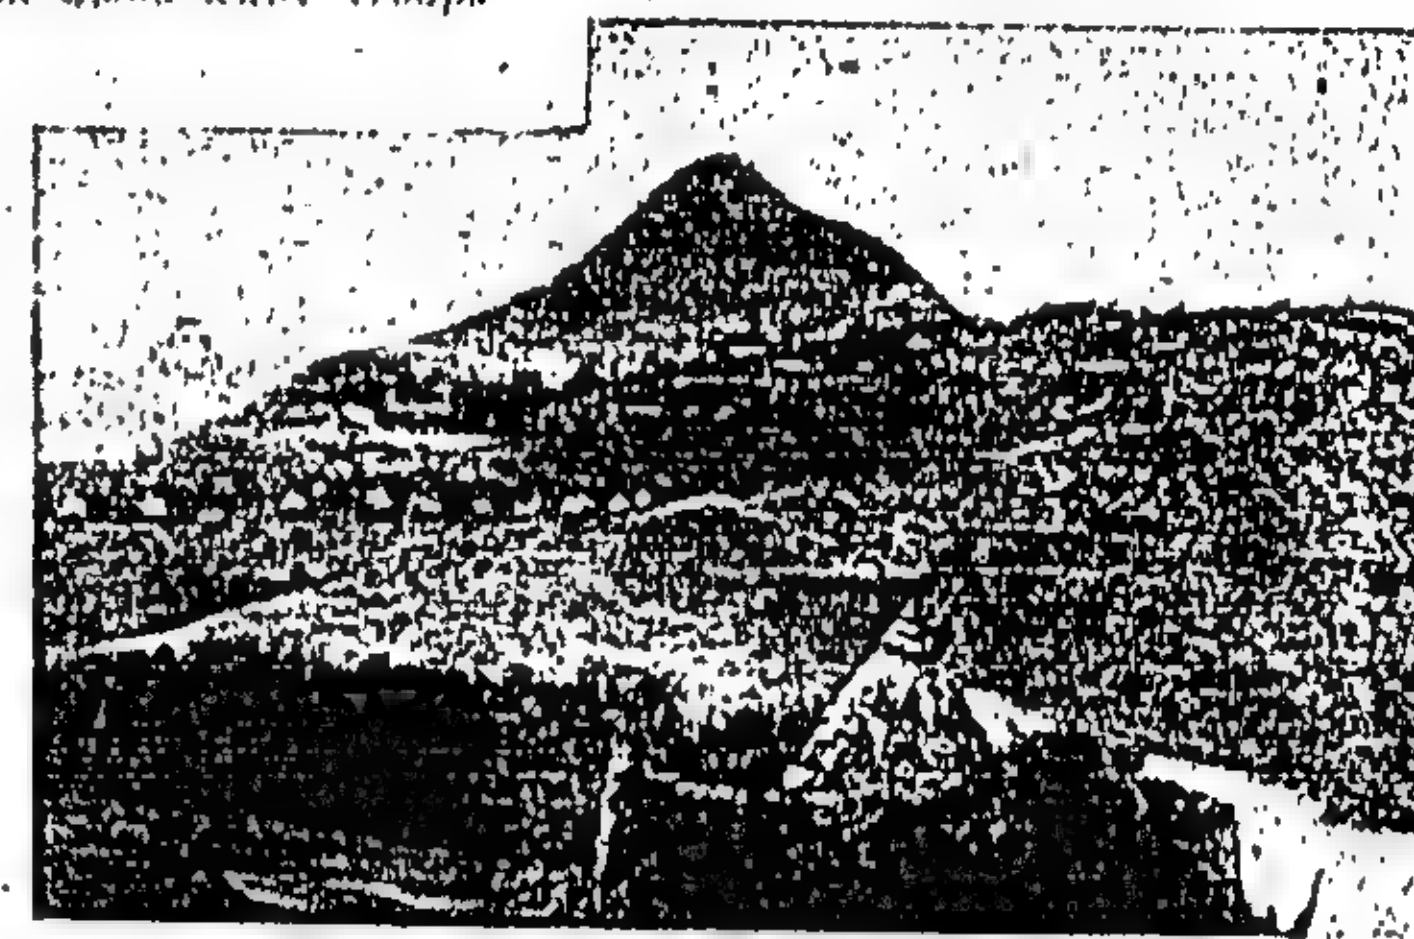

THE Italians first came on the scene in Ethiopia in 1870, when an Italian company purchased Assab, a port near the southern entrance of the Red Sea, from a local Sultan. The Company was bought out by the Italian Government in 1882, and, in January, 1885, Massawa was taken over by them from Egypt. This act was greatly resented by the Abyssinians, for by a treaty concluded with a British and Egyptian mission in the previous year, free transit of goods was to be allowed through this port.

Matters came to a head in January, 1887, when the Abyssinians, in consequence of a refusal by the Italian Commander-in-Chief to withdraw his forces, surrounded and attacked a detachment of 500 Italian troops at Dogali, killing more than 400 of them.

From then on, through the next nine years, fighting occurred spasmodically between the Italians and Abyssinians, one engagement resulting in the death of King John, the Abyssinian Emperor, who was killed by a stray bullet.

Italy promptly concluded a treaty with the new emperor, in consequence of which the Italians occupied Asmara.

For a time it seemed as though hostilities between the two countries had come to a definite end but as the Italians became more and more friendly with the Abyssinian Princes, Mangasha solely to the error committed by and Ras Makonnen, the apprehension of their uncle, Emperor Menelek, increased and, in 1893, he denounced the Italo-Ethiopian treaty.

In March, 1895, General Baratieri undertook the conquest of Tigre, the northern province of Abyssinia. At first he met with success; but in December he pushed a detachment as far south as Amba Alagi, and it was almost annihilated.

Thereafter Baratieri's tactics were indecisive and the Italian Government decided to supersede him.

Meanwhile, anxious to win some success before the relieving general arrived, Baratieri attacked, in a weak position, at Adowa.

The rout of the Italians was complete. They lost 4,600 white troops and nearly 3,000 native soldiers killed and wounded, while between 2,500 and 3,000 prisoners were taken by the enemy. The Abyssinian losses were about 10,000.

THE comments which a contemporary made at the time on the battle of Adowa are worth recalling:

"Sympathy is generally felt in England for the cruel disaster that has befallen Italy; the bitter national mortification, and the sacrifice of thousands of gallant Italian lives, with great loss of military stores and artillery, in General Baratieri's unsuccessful battle at Adowa, on Sunday, March 1."

"All the detailed accounts of that disastrous engagement and more friendly to show that its result was due to the error committed by the Commander-in-Chief, while the soldiers and officers, Brigadier-Generals Arimondi, Albertone, Dabormida, and Ellena, with those under them, behaved like heroes in their efforts to save the army from its fatal predicament, divided and entangled amid rugged hills and surrounded by an enemy whose forces were at least five-fold greater than the Italians had in the field."

"Neither in bravery and steadfast courage nor in the management of the actual fighting did they show themselves inferior to the modern armies of the most renowned European nations. If nearly half the men in the ranks fell in the hopeless combat, this was mainly due to their own devoted pertinacity in disputing the ground."

THE modern city of Adowa, which has suffered so severely from aerial bombardment during the past week-end, is the capital of Tigre, and is 145 miles northeast of Gondar and 17 miles from Axum, the ancient capital of Ethiopia.

It is built on the slope of a hill at an elevation of 6,500 feet, in the midst of a rich agricultural district.

During the wars between the Italians and Abyssinians it was looted and burnt on four occasions, but, until last week, the churches escaped destruction. The Church of the Holy Trinity, one of the largest in Abyssinia, contains numerous wall-paintings of native art.

Most of the ancient city, unhappily, now lies in ruins, a victim to "civilisation."

"Haven't I finished paying for last year's drought?"

A class in English was given the task of writing four lines of dramatic poetry. The results were various, and, selecting the verse of a usually bright boy, the teacher read:

A boy was walking down the track,
 The train was coming fast,
 The boy stepped off the railway track
 To let the train go past.

"This verse is very well done," said the teacher, "but it lacks drama. Try again, Johnny, and make it more dramatic." Whereupon, in a surprisingly short time, Johnny produced the following:

A boy was walking down the track,
 The train was coming fast,
 The train jumped off the railway track
 To let the boy go past.

A Doctor attended old Pete when he had his last touch of flu. "Did your teeth chatter when you felt the chill coming over you?" asked the doctor. "I don't know, doc," said Pete. "They were lying on the table."

"Pardon me," said the stranger (Continued on Page 5.)

lighted those who followed the match. Padgham so lazily powerful, Whitcombe hitting the ball with all the venom of solid physique and powerful hands firmly interlocked. Then Padgham holed putts of 12 feet, 12 feet, and four yards to leave the 6th and 7th and win the 8th, and to be two up—for Whitcombe's second to the 4th had found a sandy grave. With a half in 4 Padgham was out in 33 to his opponent's 35 and two up. Halves in 5, 3, 5 followed; then Whitcombe, who had missed holeable putts at the 10th and 12th, rammed one in from 12 feet to win the 13th in 3. He holed another of 7 feet at the 14th and the match was square. Back came Padgham to the attack, banging two fine one's home, with his opponent pulling his tee-shot into the short rough, and drawing his second into a bunker. Both had chances at the short 16th, Whitcombe following his opponent in a tragic and almost unbelievable attempt to hole short putts; then from the top of the 17th green of infinite subtlety, Whitcombe holed a putt suggestive of Corinthian bagatelle for a 3 to square the match. With both hitting good drives to the 18th, a half in 4 was inevitable. At the 18th, Whitcombe drove into the cross bunkers guarding the green: Padgham was just short of them; pitched up 4 feet from the hole, and with a 3 snatched a fine win.

BRILLIANT GOLF

In the third round games, R. A. Whitcombe beat Adams, who has been playing so lamely of late. Adams got an early lead but Whitcombe won the 11th with a 2nd, then holed a spade-mashie shot over trees at the 13th to get on terms. From then, until he won by holing an eight-yard putt for the match, he was always set for victory. It was a grand game, with the winner out in 34 and home in 33 for a round of 67.

Padgham played some brilliant golf round the greens to beat J. J. Taylor. He drove the 7th, and recovering well from a bunker at the next, shook his opponent into taking 3 putts. Three up he smiled comfortably on a victory which seemed inevitable despite the fine fighting powers of Taylor.

Perry always held the whip hand against the sole Irish competitor, Fairweather; King, if not so brilliant as in the previous round, had the better of the short game with another fairly-handed exponent of the delicate art in Ward. Burton had a very clutch call with Fallon. Compston is going his formidable way, and beat Kenyon by 3 and 1.

Denny played some of the most astounding golf of a bewildering day. In beating Mackie he reached the turn in 30 strokes to be six up, and with 4, 2, 4, settled the affair out of hand. And his opponent was out in 36!

In the second round games, Compston had a severe shaking up by Martin. Both tasted all the troubles of the course, insidious like good Hock, but equally expensive; both putted with remarkable accuracy. Compston lasted the better and got through.

The match between Sam King and Davies produced some scintillating golf which finishing at the 16th hole in favour of the young Knole Park player. There was little to choose between the players off the tee, but King was slightly more accurate with his second shots. Out in 32 against 34 by Davies, King turned two up, his score for the first nine holes being 4, 3, 4, 3, 4, 4, 2, 4; the next four holes were halved in 4, 3, 4, 3. King then won the long 14th in 4 against his opponent's 5, and finished the match with another 4 at the next hole, King was not asked to hole out a few putts of less than a foot, and his score of six under four is, therefore, only approximate. With the exception of a pulled second at the tenth hole he did not make a semblance of a mistake.

SUNDAY CRICKET

GARTHWAITE'S ELEVEN BEAT NAVY

EIGHT WICKETS

An eleven led by Lieut. G.C. Garthwaite, R.A., had an easy victory over a team skippered by Lieut. C. Miers at Cricket on the Navy ground at King's Park on Sunday, winning by eight wickets.

Batting first, Lieut. Miers's team scored 164 runs, to which Mr. Douglass contributed 32 and Lieut. Miers 34. Lieut. Garthwaite bowled very well for the winners and captured six wickets for 44 runs.

A first-wicket partnership which realised 102 runs between Lieut. J. P. Williams (70 retired) and Lieut. Hon. G. R. Clegg-Hill (61) paved the way for victory for Lieut. Garthwaite's eleven. Victory was secured for the loss of only two wickets, but the team continued batting until 210 runs were on the board with seven wickets in hand.

Insomnia—The Result Of Nerve Weakness.

Most people, at some time or another, have known what it is to lie awake at night tossing and turning, hoping for the sleep which does not come, with the result that by morning they are tired and irritable, and ill-fitted for the daily routine. It is unwise to allow such nights of broken rest to become too frequent.

Insomnia may be due to some persistent pain, such as neuralgia or rheumatism, or to inefficient physical exercise, worry, grief or over-activity of the brain. But usually its primary cause is nerve weakness, and in such cases a short course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills almost invariably is all that is required to set matters right.

The reason for this is that the nerves, like the other component parts of the physical system, depend for their strength upon an adequate supply of oxygen and iron, just such as is contained in the rich red blood created by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Try a thirty-day course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As soon as you commence taking this reliable old preparation the constructive process will start. The blood will grow richer, will carry more vitality, and your own feelings will react pleasantly. Old aches and off-days will give way to new vigour and a brighter outlook on life. You will know once again the joy of possessing that priceless treasure—health.

Chemists everywhere sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

SERIAL STORY

One I Love

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

CHAPTER XLV

McKewan of the detective squad entered the living room, in hand. "Good afternoon," he said. "Your maid said you were here, Mrs. Carlyle. Thought I might as well come over and get this thing cleared up."

"Oh, Mr. McKewan, have you found out anything?"

"We've found the necklace."

"Oh, the woman's voice came in a chorus. Betty Carlyle was leaning eagerly forward, Mrs. Curtis, severe and rigid in her straight-backed chair.

"Where did you find it?" Betty asked. "What did she do with it?"

"I'll answer all your questions," the detective told her. "But first take a look at this."

He reached into his pocket, drew out a small black case and handed it to her. "See if that's your necklace," he said.

The lid of the box sprang open at Betty's touch. Inside on a square of white satin lay a strand of pearls.

Betty held them up to the light, smiling. "Of course it is," she said. "I've never seen any others with a clasp like this."

McKewan nodded. "I found them in a pawn shop," he said.

"A pawn shop?"

"Mrs. Curtis interrupted. 'I think I'd better call Janet,' she said.

"Yes, bring her in!" Betty nodded eagerly. "I want her to be here!"

"I don't believe that will be necessary," the detective began but Betty was already on her feet. "I'll find her," she said and disappeared through the door.

She was back a moment later, cheeks flushed and eyes triumphant. Janet followed her into the room, paused and looked questioning toward Mrs. Curtis.

"Sit down, Janet," the older woman said. "Mr. McKewan has found the necklace."

Janet saw the box lying open on the table and stared forward. Her face was suddenly transformed.

"Oh, I'm so glad!" she exclaimed. "I'm so glad!"

Betty Carlyle darted a swift glance at the other girl and frowned. Mr. McKewan cleared his throat. "Well," he said, "I thought maybe you'd rather we talked it over in private, but if this is the way you want it, all right. The necklace was in a pawn shop down on Mulberry street. Been there nearly a week. You see, we were sure it was an amateur job so this morning, just on a chance, we checked the pawn shops. Found it in the second place we went. The fellow who runs the shop told us a man brought the necklace in last Monday."

"You say it was a man?" Mrs. Curtis asked.

"Yes," McKewan hesitated. "I guess there's no reason to beat around the bush about it," he went on. "It was your husband, Mrs. Carlyle."

"My husband? Betty's eyes were like two fiery fires. Not Rolf! Oh, no, he couldn't!"

The detective nodded. "I'm afraid there isn't any question about it," he said. "I've already talked to him. It seems there were some debts he and the whole story. Pretty badly worried, I guess."

"You mean—he admitted it?"

"Oh, yes. Nothing else for him to do. He'd used another name on the ticket but it was easy enough to trace. As soon as I talked to him he admitted the whole story. Pretty badly worried, I guess."

"Mrs. Curtis had found her voice. "Oh, Betty!" she exclaimed. "My poor little girl!"

"He said," McKewan went on, "that he didn't really mean to put the necklace. He was going to put it back in as soon as he could get the money. Said he didn't think you'd miss it. The pawn broker only allowed him $300 on it."

Betty Carlyle was on her feet. "A thief!" she cried. "Oh, my God! Lying to me. Stealing. He's been gambling and lost again, that's what he's done. I told him the last time I wouldn't give him another cent!"

She stamped one small, spike-heeled foot. "I hate him," she cried. "I'm sick of the sight of him and I never want to see him again. I won't forgive him for this as long as I live. Never! Never! Never!"

Overwrought emotion had its way. Betty sank into a chair, sobbing violently.

Her mother bent over her, murmuring comforting phrases, stroking her shoulder and trying to quiet her. The detective shifted uncomfortably in his chair and looked about the room.

All at once he sprang forward. "She's fainted!" he exclaimed. The two women turned. Janet Hill's eyes were closed. Her head had tilted back against her chair and her face was paper white.

McKewan said, "She ought to be lying down. Can someone get some water?"

Rolf Carlyle let himself into the apartment. There was no light in the living room, grayed with dusk, but from beyond came a faint glow. He walked on until he reached the door of the bedroom, stopped on the threshold.

"Well," he said, "I didn't know whether I'd find you here or not."

Betty was surveying herself in the full-length mirror. She wore a black dress with a high collar and a single shoulder. There were no sleeves. It was a dress she often wore to dinner parties.

"Why, yes, I'm here," she said coolly. "Where have you been?"

Rolf entered the room. "I thought maybe you'd be at your mother's," he said. His voice sounded strained.

"I couldn't go there. Betty—I didn't really mean to do it! I mean—the way it looks. I thought I'd have the money back in a few days. You hardly ever wear that necklace and I was sure I'd have it back before you'd miss it. I had to get the money to pay Tom Jamieson. Don't you see, Betty?"

She turned to meet his gaze directly. "I see perfectly," she said. "Everything. I see that you're a lying, sneaking, good-for-nothing and that's all you'll ever be. I see that you've lied to me and humiliated me but you won't have a chance to do it again."

"Betty! Won't you listen to me? I tell you I didn't mean to take the necklace. I've put in the most horrible day I've ever spent in my life. I've been through hell. My God, Betty, I've said I'm sorry. What more can I do? Don't you understand what I've been saying?"

She moved toward him, eyes defiant, her face colorless from anger. "I understand," she cried. "You're the one who doesn't seem to be able to do that. I'm getting out! Do you hear that? Getting out! I was ready to say I'd marry you. I only did because I'd had a fight with Van Bannister and wanted to show him I didn't care. You didn't know that, did you? Well, it's true. I've never been in love with you and you've been getting to be more of a nuisance every day. I'd have stood a little longer if you hadn't tried to pull this latest stunt but this is too much."

"You can't do that!" Rolf exclaimed.

"Oh, can't I? Well, just watch me. I'm leaving to-night and I never intend to see you again as long as I live!"

"But you can't! You are my wife and I guess I have some rights. I'll have something to say."

"All right. Try saying it. I'll have you arrested for stealing my pearls if you don't. You've never supposed me since the day we were married. Why, I could divorce you a dozen times! Oh, I know what I'm doing—I've been talking to a lawyer this afternoon."

"You really mean that?"

She picked up a wrap and drew it around her shoulder. A small velvet bag lay on the dressing table and she picked that up, too.

"Frederick's down stairs with mother's car," she said. "Maybe you noticed. If you have anything to say to me get in touch with Trumbull and Schaeffer. They're my lawyers."

Rolf took her arm. "Betty," he said huskily, "couldn't you give me another chance?"

She drew away from him. "Don't touch me," she exclaimed. Raising her carefully painted face she added, "You thief!"

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

It's a story as old as humanity itself, and yet it is still being learned and probably always will be the lesson that is brought out in RKO-Radio's "The Informer," coming on Wednesday to the King's Theatre. No man is greater than his weaknesses. And the most dangerous of all weaknesses is a beautiful woman. Found it in the garden of Eden. And the mischief-making powers of women did not die out with Eve, as history with its tales of Delilah, Helen of Troy, and Madame Pompadour attests. For a goodly percentage of the famous crimes of history and tremendous number of the obscure ones have been inspired by women. Far more men, however, have been guided to worthy deeds and greatness by women than have been lured to their destruction. This theme of the dominance of women over men has been powerfully employed by author Liam O'Flaherty in his treatment by Victor McLaglen, "The Informer." Gypo Nolan's weakness is a blonde woman, and for the twenty pounds which he needs to take her with him out of their sordid surroundings he commits the worst crime known to his race, a crime that inevitably leads to his own destruction. With Victor McLaglen in the title role of "The Informer" is a cast that includes Heather Angel, Margaret Grahame, Preston Foster, Wallace Ford and Una O'Connor. John Ford produced.

"The Crusades" Cecil B. DeMille, master showman in creating his greatest picture "The Crusades," coming to the Queen's, gives exhibitors super deluxe entertainment, intriguing the eye with spectacle and breath-taking with tender romance and exalting the moral sense with religious passion. Fired with inspiration, the production humanizes the primitive virtues to stir and elevate, with each moment enriched by taste and beauty. Aside from pomp and majesty, glitter and gallop, a love clash between Henry Wilton, as Richard the Lion Hearted, and Loretta Young, as Princess of Navarre, shines with warmth and fervor. Set against this alliance, O. Henry Gordon, as Philip of France, instils Richard marry his sister, Katherine DeMille, per his royal pledge. Ian Keith, Saracen chief, with Loretta Young his captive, gallantly relinquishes to Richard. The production is technically perfect. Authentic settings, costuming, music, battle implements and breath-taking photography all hold an inspired quality for audiences. Colossal as was DeMille's concept in script, just as colossal is the screen masterpiece now coming. Its spellbinding warmth, its strength of muscle and steel, its seal of minds and men hold one entranced.

thrilled as one of the world's most glorious pageants, relives in apologetic romance.

"Young Eagles"

The international significance of the Boy Scout organization is evidenced by the fact that every four years, Scout representatives from all corners of the globe meet for what is called a "World Jamboree." The most recent of these international conferences took place in Hungary, and was attended by 25,000 Scouts, while almost twice as many boys were present at the preceding "Jamboree," held at Liverpool. All of which goes to prove that the globe-trotting tendencies of the Boy Scout heroes of "Young Eagles," Romance Productions' new Chapter Film, which comes to the Alhambra to-day, are founded on fact. While international Scout conferences in European capitals play no part in the adventures of these two youthful daredevils, stirring combats with wild beasts in a Central American jungle do. Two clever young Boy Scout actors, impersonate the heroes of "Young Eagles," and are supported by well-known screen favorites. Mayan Indians, bandits and dozens of tropical beasts complete the cast and help supply thrills.

"The Lives of a Bengal Lancer"

A picture which combines magnificence, sheer spectacle, and breath-taking action with the poignance of human drama, is Paramount's "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," showing at the Oriental Theatre on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There have been many number of screen spectacles based on the lives and adventures of fighting men, but never one of the calibre of "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer." Over four years in the making, it employed more than four thousand actors in scenes shot in the mountain fastnesses of India and in five separate locations in California. Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone, Richard Cromwell and Sir Guy Standing head the cast of the picture as officers of this colourful regiment. The drama arises from the conflict between Sir Guy Standing, who plays a crusty, hard-shelled colonel, and his subordinate officers. You will see in this massive production the role of the commanding officer, the stirring horse-manship, the suspense and the fascination of glimpses of a strange and unexplored East that make "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" one of the grandest spectacles ever to be filmed. The cast, which features only one girl, Kathleen Burke, includes such Hollywood favourites as Monte Blue, C. Aubrey Smith, Douglas Dumbrille, Akim Tamiroff and Colin Tapley.

"Ann Carver's Profession"

An unattached bachelor in private life, Gene Raymond has been married in eight out of the nine pictures he has made since he became a screen actor two years ago. In "Ann Carver's Profession," Columbia drama which opens at the Star Theatre to-day, Raymond again has the role of a young husband. He is married to Fay Wray, shortly after the picture opens and most of the action centres on their marital difficulties, brought about by Miss Wray's sensational success as a lawyer. For vivacious Gene has had a number of the most talented actresses in Hollywood. He was married to Sylvia Sydney in "Ladies of the Big House," to Marguerite Churchill in "Forgotten Commandments," to Frances Dee in "The Night of June 13" and "If I Had a Million," to Mary Astor in "Red Dust," to Betty Davis in "Ex-Lady," and to Loretta Young in "Zoo in Budapest." Supporting Miss Wray and Raymond in "Ann Carver's Profession" are Claire Dodd, Arthur Hovine, Jessie Ralph, Claude Gillingwater, and Frank Albertson. Eddie Buzzell directed.

"George White's 1935 Scandals"

To girls eager to act, George White, the producer who has developed more stars for stage and screen than any other theatrical man, offers the advice that they start at once to learn the tap steps and dance routines. He suggests that these steps be learned at a local dance school, or even at home. The creator and producer of "George White's 1935 Scandals," now playing at the King's Theatre, has to his credit fourteen outstanding musical revue successes on Broadway. He is famous for his ability to take unknown girls, develop their talent and act them on the path leading to stardom on stage and screen. He points out that Alice Faye, one of the stars in his latest all-star musical revue, came to Hollywood merely to give a minor song and dance number for the first issue of the "Scandals." She was so good that she was made leading lady in the picture. Others in the cast of this sprightly revue, full of gyrating dances, original songs, and spy humour, are James Dunn, Ned Sparks, Lyda Roberti, Cliff Edwards, Arline Judge, Eleanor Powell, Benny Rubin, Emma Dunn and George White. The entire revue was conceived, produced and directed by George White.

"Black Fury"

A coal mine complete in every detail was built above ground for the making of the Fox National production "Black Fury" showing to-day at the Queen's Theatre with Paul Muni in the stellar role. Because much of the action of "Black Fury" takes place in a coal mine, Director Michael Curtiz and a camera crew visited the Pennsylvania coal fields long before the actual filming of the picture started. They photographed mining villages and miners' homes as well as the interior of the actual mines. Then they returned to Hollywood where a complete coal mine was erected according to plans and specifications of the U.S. Bureau of Mines. It took seventy-five men three weeks to build the mine with all its details complete. Including eight thousand feet of track stretched throughout the mine with a real trolley system comprised of eight coal cars and two electric locomotives. The main tunnel was eight feet high

TERRIBLE TOLL IN EXPLOSION

TWENTY PERSONS BURN TO DEATH

CHICAGO ROCKED

Chicago, Oct. 7. Twenty people, mostly young girls and men, are believed to have been burnt to death in a fire which followed an explosion in the Glidden Sola Products Company's building, which fortunately occurred during lunch-time, when the majority of the 250 employees were absent from the premises.

The explosion rocked the district for a mile around, bowled over pedestrians like tin cans, and destroyed dozens of motor-cars parked nearby.

A blinding flame then devoured the walls of the building as though they were made of paper, and reduced the huge factory to ashes within a few moments.

Dozens of injured people were extricated from the debris and rushed to hospital.—Reuter.

BODIES RECOVERED

Chicago, Oct. 7. Seven bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the factory where many are feared to have perished in a fire and explosion.

The dead include the factory superintendent and a German engineer.

Four are still missing and twenty more are in hospital, some of them with little chance to recover.—Reuter.

TIMBER CO.'S CLAIM

JUDGMENT GIVEN BY COURT

A claim for $735 for goods sold and delivered was brought by the Sham Mow Timber and Sawmills Co. against Lee Yau, formerly trading as Lee Sang & Co., building contractors, before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Summary Court this morning.

The defendant was absent, and after the assistant manager of the plaintiff firm had given evidence substantiating the claim, His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

His Lordship also made an order that the money which the defendant had in the possession of the Director of Public Works be handed over to the plaintiffs as settlement for the claim.

MORE PEOPLE EMPLOYED

LATEST BRITISH FIGURES

London, Oct. 7. The increase in the numbers in employment continued during September. The Ministry of Labour estimates that on September 23 there were approximately 10,435,000 insured persons, aged sixteen to sixty-four, in employment in Great Britain. This was 11,000 more than on August 26 and 192,000 more than the year before.

At the same date the numbers of unemployed persons on the registers in Britain totalled 1,958,610, comprising 1,676,425 wholly unemployed, 298,845 temporarily laid off, and 83,340 normally in casual employment. The total was 10,616 more than on August 26, but 123,377 less than the year before.—British Wireless.

LOCAL DOLLAR DECLINES

MARKET EASIER TO-DAY

The Hongkong dollar declined 1/8th this morning, the official rate being 2s. 0 1/4d. The market was easier, the inter-bank rates being 2s. 0 1/2d. for 100, and 2s. 0 1/4d. for 500. There was a good deal of small business at 2s. 0 1/2d.

In London, silver prices declined 1/8th yesterday. China sold, and speculators were the only buyers, the market being quiet.

ANTI-MANCHUKUO PLOT

Harbin, Oct. 8. A hundred and twenty Soviet Russian emigres, Chinese and Koreans have been arrested on suspicion of subversive activities against Manchukuo.—Reuter.

WELCOME EMBARGO

U.S. ACTION WELL RECEIVED

BRITAIN'S REACTION

London, Oct. 7. The news of the proclamation of an arms embargo by President Roosevelt last night is welcomed in London.

Attention is given particularly to the President's statement that in the specific circumstances of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute he desires it to be understood that any United States citizens "who voluntarily engage in transactions of any character with either of the belligerents do so at their own risk," and satisfaction is expressed.

INFLATION TALK IN AMERICA

Significant News In Finance Field

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Oct. 7. Traders are studying the money and banking situation here and there is considerable talk of inflation. Many feel there must be some type of expansion soon, for which reason some investment sources are actually suggesting the purchase of stocks with an eye to inflation possibilities.

The major banks show tremendous deposit increases, but it is not indicated that this money is going into use. Many show sharp reductions of Government securities holdings and in addition it is indicated that the last Liberty Loan conversion was only about 80 per cent. successful.—United Press.

at the President's attitude, which is regarded as indicating that any action decided upon by the Governments in the League of Nations, in their efforts to restore peace, will not be impeded by the fact that United States is outside the League.

The decision of the United States Government is the more appreciated in London as coming entirely from its own initiative—as the American Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, emphasised anew in Washington today—although no doubt facilitated by the full and candid information on the development of the situation which the British Government has regularly made available to the State Department.—British Wireless.

VILLAGE BLAZE ON MAINLAND

HUTS DESTROYED: PIGS BURNT TO DEATH

Several hutments were destroyed in a fire which broke out at Sheung Shu Po village, Kowloon City district, this morning, and a child was also severely burnt.

The Fire Brigade received the call at about 9.30 a.m. and immediately rushed to the scene, finding fifteen hutments blazing furiously. After about an hour's strenuous work the outbreak was got under control.

It is estimated that from forty to fifty pigs were burned to death, while the child which received serious burns was conveyed to hospital.

THE TYPHOON

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone has strengthened and extended rapidly eastward. It now extends from North China to Central Japan. A depression is moving eastward over North Manchuria. At 6 a.m. the typhoon was situated over the Hainan Strait, moving west. Local forecast: East winds, fresh, moderating; cloudy.

COPPER STILL RISING

New York, Oct. 7. Copper prices advanced a quarter cent to 9.25. Trade circles foresee another quarter-cent increase in the near future, owing to the indications of sustained pressure in demand, both domestic and foreign.—Reuter Special.

LONDON-NEW YORK AIR LINE

REGULAR SERVICE ANTICIPATED

HUGE FLYING BOATS

Washington, Oct. 7. A regular overnight air service between London and New York is being planned, according to the National Aeronautical Association. Association officials state that the construction of a 50-ton flying boat, twice the size of the Pan-American Clipper now making a trans-Pacific test flight, is quite feasible.

The new plane would carry a paying load of passengers, mail and freight, and the first-class fare one way would be £83 when the service is bi-weekly and £53 when operating daily.—Reuter.

U.S. EMBARGO ORDERS

WILL NOT RESENT SHIP SEARCHES

Washington, Oct. 7. President Roosevelt will not include raw materials, he has intimated, in his embargo against belligerents in Europe. He has warned all traders that they deal with the warring Governments or commercial firms at their own risk.

However, he will not restrict the supplies of wheat, cotton, copper or steel which may be sent to Italy or Ethiopia, he has said.

He is said to have assured the League of Nations that in the event of its imposing sanctions the United States will not insist upon the right of American vessels to deliver cargo to either of the belligerents. He indicated that American vessels could be stopped by League powers' warships without incurring the Administration's displeasure.—United Press.

AIR MAILS DELAYED

TYPHOON AFFECTS SHIPPING

The Blue Funnel steamer Pyrrhus, which is bringing the English air mails to Hongkong, and which was due here at 10 a.m. yesterday, is now not due until 11 p.m. to-day.

The Pyrrhus has been delayed by the typhoon, having had to make a very wide detour to the south in order to avoid the full force of the wind.

Other ships which were due today included the Andre Lebon, from Shanghai bringing Siberian mail, and the Cramer from Singapore. Both arrived on time, the Cramer reporting particularly heavy weather.

PACIFIC RADIO TIE-UP

JAPANESE BROKERS DISTURBED

Tokyo, Oct. 8. The intermittent strike troubles with San Francisco radio operators have considerably disturbed Tokyo and Osaka brokers, because cabled reports from America are arriving excessively slowly.

Brokers say they are unable to understand why market information filed from New York is handled entirely by radio, while other messages come via the Bondus.—United Press.

MISSING U. S. NAVAL MAN

BODY RECOVERED IN HARBOUR

Missing from his ship for three days, the body of First-Class Fireman Joe Al Cherrle, of the U.S.S. Smith Thompson, destroyer 212 of the American squadron at present in Hongkong, was picked up in the harbour near the Saihung wharf this morning.

The body was recovered by the police at about 7 a.m., but up to the present nothing is definitely known as to the circumstances under which he lost his life.
